MOSCOW SILENT ON BERLIN PLAN

66 More C-54s For Airlift Are Made Available

Transports Will Be At Clay's Disposal As He Requests Them

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—(AP)—President Truman today authorized Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American commander in Germany, to add up to 66 additional C-54 transport planes for service connected with the Berlin airlift.

The transports will be provided by the Air Forces as they are called for by Gen. Clay to keep blockaded Berlin supplied, a White House official said.

The official said he understood that more than 200 of the large transports already are in the airlift service, either in directly provisioning the Russian-blockaded city or in sidelines to the so-called "Operation Vittles."

Clay visited the White House this morning with Secretary of the Army Royall for a half hour conference with Mr. Truman.

Later in the day, it was understood, Clay attended a session of the National Security Council at the White House. The council is made up of the Secretaries of Staten Defense, Army, Navy and Air, and other government leaders.

No Indication Reds Plan War

It was assumed that Clay had requested the additional transports in the morning session and had received approval of the request from the assembled members of the Security Council.

The White House official who disclosed the new authority for Gen. Clay was Eben Ayres, assistant press secretary. Ayres said the additional planes will be at the disposal of Clay as the General requests them and that some may not enter the aircraft service directly, but be used instead in auxiliary operations.

Earlier today, Gen. Clay told a news conference he had "no evidence" of troop activities in Eastern Germany that might indicate Russian preparation for war.

Clay, who flew here from Berlin last week for top level conferences, told newsmen:

1. The Russians have a "Communist indoctrinated police force" of 200,000 to 300,000 men in the eastern zone of Germany. Similar Allied forces are "very small."

Explains Koch Sentence Cut

2. He cut the life sentence of Ilse Koch, widow of the commander of Buchenwald concentration camp, to four years' imprisonment because he believed the trail record did not warrant the stiffer penalty. He said the reduction was in accordance with American principles of justice.

3. The airlift has succeeded, and can be maintained as long as "is necessary for our statesmen to find a solution" to the Berlin blockade. He said he did not anticipate any Russian violence in the air corridor.

Gen. Clay discussed the situation in Germany with President Truman this morning. He flies back to Berlin tonight after a speech in New York at the Alfred E. Smith memorial dinner.

At his news conference he was asked flatly about the possibility of war.

He said he saw "no evidence" of Russian preparations for that.

Mother Of Six Charged With Kidnaping Baby

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP) — A grand jury today charged Mrs. Lena Shifflett, 44-year-old mother of six, with kidnapping a 10-weeks-old child from its baby carriage.

The baby, Jo Ann Mazzanotte, was safe and sound at its home, where it was returned yesterday just 21 hours after she was snatched in front of a drug store.

The presentment returned by the grand jury charged Mrs. Shifflett "did feloniously kidnap and forcibly and fraudulently carry away Jo Ann Mezzanotte with intent to have such person concealed within the state."

Air Endurance Record Sought By Rival Teams

[By The Associated Press]

Two sets of fliers, half a continent apart, set their sights yesterday for a world's air endurance record of 726 hours.

Over Palm Springs, Calif., Dick Reidel and Bill Harris topped 44 hours in midafternoon as their four-place cabin plane droned on without missing a beat. They reported the flight uneventful. They made gasoline pickups on schedule and said they were confident they could hit their goal of 1,008 hours, December 7.

Meanwhile, from Dallas, Tex., two rivals reported "everything's going according to plan" in their assault on the same record. Fred Vinmont and Bert Simons went aloft at 6:01 p. m. (Central Standard Time) Wednesday.

Plane Wreckage Yields Diamonds

PRESTWICK, Scotland, Oct. 21 (AP)—Police said tonight a $40,000 shipment of diamonds had been recovered from the wreckage of a Dutch airliner which crashed in an early morning fog killing 39 of the 40 persons aboard. Nine of the dead were Americans.

The diamonds were in a tin can. Their ownership could not be traced immediately because of destruction of the burned plane's cargo records.

The New York-bound KLM plane tore through a high voltage power line while attempting a landing and crashed into a cow pasture in one of the worst aviation disasters in British history.

The four-engined plane, an American-made Lockheed Constellation, overshot the runway on its radar-guided approach to Prestwick's big international airport shortly after midnight.

It pulled up to circle again. The control tower heard a short radio massage from the pilot: "I have hit something, going on fire climbing away."

Then the big plane burst into flame, fell, and skidded like a fiery comet across the Scotch cow pasture spewing out its dead and fatally injured.

Actress Elissa Landi Is Victim Of Cancer

KINGSTON, N. Y., Oct. 21 (AP)—Elissa Landi, 43-year-old actress and writer familiar to American movie-goers of the 1930s, died today of cancer.

She had been in Kingston Hospital for 10 days. Her physician, Dr. Kenneth Lefever, said the blonde actress never knew the cause of her fatal illness.

"Single Standard Of Equal Justice" Urged By Dewey

GOP Nominee Offers Civil Rights Formula

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said tonight the problem of social injustice should be solved with "a single standard of equal justice and equal treatment for all."

He said that, with such a single standard, "we can meet even our most difficult problems of discrimination."

Selecting as his theme an issue which has led to a split in the Democratic Party, the Republican presidential nominee outlined this formula for handling the problem:

"Every human right carries with it a responsibility to use it in the interests of others and not to their injury. It means that the government which administers these rights must guide its way by a single standard of equal justice and equal treatment for all."

"Single Standard"

The New York Governor expressed his views in a speech delivered at the annual dinner of the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Foundation.

Referring to the "single standard," Dewey said that by faithful adherence to it:

"We can meet even our most difficult problems of discrimination against minority groups, of prejudice, of bigotry, of denial of certain human rights."

"From my own experience in this state with the largest minority groups in the nation, I have found it possible to find peaceful, honest solutions to problems which fester when they are ignored or explode if they are mishandled," he said, adding:

Problem Must Be Met

"By a simple rediscovery of our devotion to human rights and the protection of others from the abuse of those rights, we can draw a line through every conflict and draw it straight and true.

"It can be drawn so that both civil liberty and social responsibility complement and fortify each other.

"We should deal with the problem of social injustice wherever it is to be found in America and solve that problem in American terms."

Dewey made no mention of the anti-discrimination law enacted in New York State during his administration.

A similar bill offered in Congress by Sen. Ives (R-N.Y.), author of this state's measure, never was brought up on the Senate floor because of the opposition of Southern Democrats.

Nude Bodies Of Lovers Found In Hotel Bathtub

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (AP) — Clasped tightly in each other's arms, the nude bodies of a couple who planned to be married this week were found today, submerged in an overflowing hotel bathtub.

The victims were Mrs. Jessie Beck, 31, Chicago, mother of two children who was to have been divorced tomorrow, and her intended bridegroom, George Reading, 40, Detroit precision machinery salesman.

Chief Deputy Coroner Anthony C. Prusinski said the couple apparently swallowed pills from several bottles found in the room, got into the bath tub in Reading's room, and turned on the water. Water dripping into the room below led to the discovery of the bodies.

American Legion Elects Texan National Leader

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 21 (AP)—The American Legion brought its national convention to a close today after unanimously election S. Perry Brown, veteran of both world wars, its new national commander.

Brown, 56-year-old Beaumont, Texas, businessman, favorite son of the "Old Guard" in the balloting, succeeds James F. O'Neil, of New Hampshire, as commander of 3,000,000 American Legionnaires throughout the world.

His election to the highest post in the biggest veterans' organization in the United States was assured when George N. Craig, of Brazil, Ind., withdrew from the three-man race. James F. Green, Omaha, Neb., attorney, was Brown's leading opposition.

Midway through the voting Craig, who had polled Indiana's 139 votes and only six others, asked that Indiana's ballots be changed to the Brown column. That was enough for the Texan's election, but the balloting continued.

The unofficial count was Brown 2,176, Green 1,262 and Craig 6. Before totals were announced Green asked that Brown's election be declared unanimous.

Brown, in accepting the nomination, declared he was receiving an honor "second only to the presidency of the United States."

"It is the greatest veterans organization the world has ever known," he said.

Earlier, two resolutions seeking pensions for all honorably discharged veterans of World War I or II were adopted at the final business session.

One, introduced by the Department of Illinois, asks Congress to enact legislation providing a $60 a month payment to all veterans of either war when they reach the age of 55 and a $75 a month payment when they reach 65.

The second, twice defeated at previous national conventions, would provide payments to all World War I veterans, their widows and children on the same basis as now paid to Spanish American War vetcrans, their widows and children.

Most Soviets Dislike Red Rule, Russian Air Force Deserters Say

Promise Of Better Life Not Kept, Two Officers Declare

LINZ, Austria, Oct. 21 (AP)—Two Russian Air Force deserters who want to live in Virginia said today 70 per cent of the Russian people dislike Communist rule.

They said the Russian people have looked in vain for the better life promised them at the end of the war. The Soviet people dislike the rule they live under but are "afraid to do anything about it," the two fliers said.

The men, both lieutenants who said they had been stationed in Germany after the war, gave their views at a news conference. They are Anatalya Barsof, 31, a pilot, and Piotr Pirogov, 27, navigator of the plane in which they flew from the Ukraine to Linz on October 9.

The Russian officers said they hoped to go to the United States and "become good American citizens." When several California newsmen suggested they probably would want to live in the Golden State, the Russians replied with an emphatic "no." They said they had heard about the Virginia state fairs over the "Voice of America" broadcasts and that that was the state for them.

Dislike Collective Farms

Pirogov said he wants "freedom of speech, freedom of the press and freedom to work." He said life in the Russian armed forces is "not bad, but it is all at the expense of the common people."

The fliers said Russian soldiers returning to the Soviet Union never are allowed to say anything good about any of the western countries they have seen.

Pirogov remarked the dislike of the Russians for Communism stems from the fact they are basically farmers and do not like the collective farms decreed long ago by the Kremlin.

Barsof said there is no such thing as a free election in Russia. He said the people are not allowed to vote for the man of their choice and often are taken to the polls at gunpoint.

"I will do anything the United States asks me to do, so long as they do not use force," Barsof added. "I will fight for the United States, again, if they do not use force."

"Voice" Influenced Decision

The officers said the State Department's "Voice of America" greatly influenced them to escape. They said they believed "everyone within range who has a radio set (in Russia) listens to the broadcasts regularly."

(In Washington, State Department officials said the "Voice of America" had never urged anyone to leave Russia or any other Soviet bloc nation. They said the two fliers made their flight on their own responsibility.)

"The Russian people are really interested in life in the United States," Barsof and Pirogov said, "and they know the Soviet press and radio is not giving the true picture."

Asked whether Russia has the atom bomb, Pirogov hesitated, then replied: "The Rusian press and radio do not say anything about it."

New Deal Is Commended By Truman

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—(AP)—President Truman tonight said that his Republican opposition plans to destroy the New Deal—The "great progressive body of laws" on which he said the Democratic Party makes its stand.

In an address prepared for broadcast under sponsorship of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, the President laid out a program of social legislation and declared:

"Our program is for the people. And that's why we are going to win this election on November 2."

Mr. Truman declared that the New Deal "represents not merely our pride in what we have done, but the pattern for what we want to do. It is a program for going forward."

But the Republicans, he declared, are only waiting to get control of the Congress and the presidency in order to do "a real hatchet job on the New Deal."

New Deal "Prosecutor"

Without referring to Republican Candidate Thomas E. Dewey by name, the President spoke of his opponent as the "chief prosecutor" of the New Deal and the author of a book called "The Case Against the New Deal."

Mr. Truman said the Republicans started their attack by converting the Wagner Labor Act into "an instrument for union busting by anti-labor employers." They did this, he said, by passing the Taft-Hartley law over his veto.

"It is not the only attack in which they have been successful," he add-

French Premier Is Urged To Act In Strike Rioting

PARIS, Oct. 21 (AP)—Some French Cabinet ministers were reported to be urging Premier Henri Queuille to declare martial law in the riot-town coal fields where more than 170 police and soldiers were injured in battles with strikers today.

Reports tonight said the ministers felt the Premier should not only declare a state of siege in the coal fields but send more troops there and call up reserves.

Police reinforcements were flown into Grand-Combe in Southern France where 6,000 miners, their wives and friends hurled scrap iron, sticks and stones and routed a smaller number of soldiers and militarized police today. A total of 150 soldiers and police were injured, 20 of them seriously.

In Bethune, Northern France, a mob of 5,000 strikers surrounded a prison and forced authorities to release seven arrested strikers and kidnaped the under prefect. Police, using tear gas, and an infantry battalion rescued him. Twenty policemen and 15 strikers were hurt. The under prefect was unhurt although he refused strikers' demands that he carry a red flag.

In the battle at Grand-Combe, the police and strikers were driven away from a mine they were guarding. Police finally fled from the town, abandoning a large quantity of material including a truck loaded with helmets and rifles.

Adm. Gannon Dies

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 21 (AP)—Rear Adm. Sinclair Gannon, USN (Ret), died here last night of a heart attack. Gannon, 71, was a former commander of the battleship New York, commander of the San Diego Naval Training Station and commandant of midshipmen at the Naval Academy.

Dewey Believes GOP Will Retain Senate Control But Demos Disagree

(Second in political interest only to the presidential race are the 1948 contests on which turn party control of the United States Senate. In the present Senate, Republicans hold 51 seats and Democrats 45. A net gain of four seats on November 2 would give the Democrats control. This situation has spelled intense rivalry in key states.

(Douglas B. Cornell, who has covered President Truman's campaign, and Marvin L. Arrowsmith, who has traveled with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey since his nomination for the presidency, report on the Senate outlook from the vantage point of presidential campaign trains.)

Democratic Viewpoint

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—The people around President Truman say his "crusade" against what he calls the "awful" 80th Congress is going to pay off in Democratic capture of the Senate.

The way they size things up, the Democrats won't lose any Senate seats and are going to toss Republicans out of four or maybe five.

They particularly like their chances for licking GOP senatorial candidates in West Virginia, Oklahoma, Minnesota and Wyoming.

If the Democrats pick up four seats, they pick up control of the Senate. The Republicans now have a 51 to 45 margin.

There's a chance the election will produce the first 48 to 48 tie in history. The Vice President, then could vote to break that tie. If he is a Republican, the GOP would keep the leadership jobs and committee chairmanships, but might have plenty of trouble doing business to their liking.

Impressions gathered from trailing the traveling Trumans for thou-

Republican Viewpoint

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—(AP)—One big aim of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's campaign is to retain Republican control of the Senate—and the GOP presidential nominee is reported confident he can attain that aim.

But no one in his camp is making any claim that the margin of control will be large. The consensus of Dewey aides is that it will be a slim majority—perhaps slimmer than the 51 to 45 division favoring the Republicans in the 80th Congress.

Dewey has given all-out aid to Republican senatorial nominees in a number of close races—but in one state, West Virginia, the picture is somewhat different.

There Sen. Chapman Revercomb, Republican, is locked in a hot fight with former Sen. Matthew M. Neely, Democrat.

Last session Congress passed a bill to admit European displaced persons. Critics said it discriminated against Jews and some Catholics. Dewey appealed to Revercomb, chairman of a judiciary sub-

Wallace Appeals To Ill. Governor After Setback

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Henry Wallace late today appealed directly to Gov. Dwight Green, of Illinois, to help the Progressive Party get on that state's November election ballots.

Earlier today the Supreme Court upheld an Illinois law under which Wallace had been barred from the state's ballot.

In a telegram to Gov. Green, Wallace asked either that state officials "certify the candidates of the Progressive Party to the November 2 general election ballot" or that the law which caused their exclusion be repealed.

Illinois had been regarded as one of the states where Wallace was strongest strategically.

GOP Senatorial Group In Black

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—(AP)—Reports filed today with Congress showed that the National Republican Senatorial Committee has collected $167,578 and has spent $164,650 on campaigns across the country.

Records in the House clerk's office also showed that the Progressive Party had a $90,295 deficit on October 19, having taken in $245,407 and spent $335,702.

The National Wallace for President Committee reported contributions of $527,200 and expenditures of $756,675, for a deficit of $229,475 on the same date.

The reports, next-to-the-last to be filed before the general election November 2, did not include financial statements from the Republican and Democratic National Committees. Reports on file covered expenses up to October 18 or 19.

The Federal Corrupt Practices Act requires complete financial accountings from political committees between October 18 and 23 this year, and on October 28.

The largest contribution reported by the Republican State Central Committee of Michigan.

Nationwide Shipping Strike Held Likely

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—Possibility of a nationwide strike of longshoremen, which would tie up shipping on all coasts beginning November 9, was voiced today by a union official.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association, told a presidential board of inquiry seeking to settle a dispute between the union and East Coast ship operators that "it looks like we're going to have a strike."

Expressing dissatisfaction with "last offers of settlement" proposed by the operators, who comprise the New York Shipping Association, Ryan urged the board to place the situation before President Truman immediately.

Rail Strike Favored

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21 (AP) — Returns thus far in the nationwide strike vote being taken among the 1,000,000 non-operating railroad employes are about 95 per cent in favor of a walkout, G. E. Leighty, national chairman of the union's negotiating committee, announced today.

Visinsky Said To Disapprove Some Aspects

Neutrals' Proposal Will Be Submitted To Council Today

PARIS, Oct. 21 (AP) — Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky tonight was reported to have advanced some objections to the new plan of the six "neutral" Security Council members for settling the Berlin crisis.

Sources said, however, Vishinsky still was awaiting formal instructions from Moscow as to its final attitude on the compromise formula submitted to the four big powers last night.

The Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister conferred for about an hour in the Soviet Embassy with Argentine Delegate Juan A. Bramuglia, who is presiding over the Security Council's Berlin discussions.

Vishinsky was reported by one source to have given Moscow's reply on the new resolution, which will be submitted to the council tomorrow, but later it was stated he still had no word from the Kremlin.

Vishinsky was said to have objected particularly to the resolution's provision that the Western Powers would carry out their agreement to establish the Russian zone mark as the sole currency in Berlin under four-power control. He commented that the proposed currency settlement would not be simultaneous with the lifting of the Berlin blockade.

Cautious Optimism

Vishinsky previously had talked with Bramuglia briefly last night when he was handed a copy of the resoultion worked out by representatives of China, Argentina, Canada, Columbia, Syria and Belgium.

Sources close to the negotiators said Vishinsky had raised no objections to the proposal of the six neutrals but quickly passed it on to Moscow last night. An American official spokesman said the compromise plan was acceptable and satisfactory but cautioned against optimism until the Soviet answer was known.

Bramuglia, council president for the Berlin debate, held a long session earlier with the other neutrals—China, Colombia, Canada, Syria and Belgium—to polish up the language of the resolution being readied for tomorrow's session at 3 p. m. (9 a. m. EST).

It was understood that the resolution does not call the Berlin blockade a threat to peace as charged by the Western Powers in their complaint to the council against Russia. Neutral sources said the plan provides:

1—An appeal to the Big Four to make no move which might lead to war.

Peace In Political Committee

2—Russia would lift the Berlin blockade completely.

3—Russia, Britain, France and the United States would carry out their agreement that the Russian zone mark be established as the sole currency in Berlin under four-power control.

Egypt's Invasion Of Palestine Seen Slowly Crumbling

Jews Win Beersheba And Threaten Gaza

TEL AVIV, Israel, Oct. 21 (AP) — Jewish forces swept into Beersheba, cradle of the modern Arab world, and occupied the town after a seven-hour battle today, a spokesman announced.

While Israel awaited notice that Egypt will guarantee to quit fighting, the Egyptians' five-month-old invasion of Palestine appeared in danger of crumbling into isolated pockets of resistance against a determined Jewish offensive.

Fall of Beersheba in the far south of the Negev Desert threatened to undermine the Egyptian front along the southern perimeter of Jerusalem. It also threatened with encirclement the strong point of Gaza, base of the Egyptian spearhead extending along the coast of Isdud, 20 miles south of Jaffa and Tel Aviv.

Bethlehem and Hebron, Egyptian bases south of Jerusalem, were reported tottering, and Gaza was indicated by Jewish spokesmen as a probable objective. Meanwhile, the Egyptian and Israeli air forces were trading blows from Haifa to the Egyptian border.

An announcement said the Israeli cabinet had notified the United Nations in Paris that the Jews would order their troops to quit fighting within 12 hours after receiving assurances that the Egyptians have agreed "to order and maintain an effective cease-fire" in the Negev by irregulars as well as regulars.

Until then, the spokesman declared, the fighting goes on.

Acting United Nations Mediator Ralph Bunche in Paris set a deadline of noon, Greenwich Mean Time—7 a. m., Eastern Standard Time—Friday for both Egypt and Israel to stop the fighting. The Security Council order for an "immediate" cease-fire two days ago set no day and hour. Bunche said there was no question of either side having the Rebels Reported Driven From One Korean City

SEOUL, Friday, Oct. 22 (AP)—Korean troops are reported to have fought back into one of two southern cities held by Communist rebels and are heavily attacking other holdout bands in the mountains.

A report reaching here through police channels says Korean sailors and soldiers re-entered Yosu, the south coast port where the uprising began early Wednesday.

Late advices from the second city, Sunchon, 20 miles to the northwest of Yosu, say three Korean army battalions still are fighting the rebels who seized control of the city Wednesday.

Korean soldiers using rifles, machine guns, and mortars, are said to be attacking a rebel force estimated at 1,300 which fled into the hills east of Sunchon.

"GWTW" Radio-Televised In 2 Minutes, 21 Seconds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—(AP)—Faster than the wind, the entire 1,047 pages of "Gone With The Wind" were broadcast by radio-television today.

The new development is called Ultrafax.

President David Sarnoff, of the Radio Corporation of America, termed it "as significant a milestone in the field of communications as was the splitting of the atom in the world of energy."

In exactly two minutes and 21 seconds, the new process televised and transmitted Margaret Mitchell's bulky Civil War novel from the sending point to a receiving station set up in the Library of Congress three miles away.

The pages of the novel had first been recorded on microfilm. Then, via television, they were flashed page by page onto negative microfilm at the receiving station.

Just 45 seconds later, through a high-speed developing process, observers could begin reading the first pages of the novel through a microfilm viewer. Development of the entire film was clocked at a little more than five minutes.

Observers could also see the televised pages on a television screen. But they moved so fast—500,000 words a minute, engineers estimated—that they looked blurred.

Speakers at the demonstration, the first public showing, said Ultrafax has amazing "potentialities" for the lightning-speed transmission of written and printed mail; newspaper pages; military, governmental, business, industrial and scientific intelligence.

Besides the Mitchell novel, demonstrators transmitted in two to three seconds a series of microfilmed documents ranging from an FBI circular to a page from the Gutenberg Bible; and from a newspaper cartoon to a map of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

Ultrafax was developed by the RCA laboratories in co-operation with the Eastman Kodak Company and the National Broadcasting Company.

The ten-year plan would total $135,615.35, including interest, or annual payments of $13,561.49.

In addition, the county can rent machines to incorporated communities and organizations holding large elections. This will result in a further savings to municipalities and organizations, as well as additional income to the county.

On November 2, general election ballots will carry two referenda on voting machines. One makes the use of machines mandatory in the county and requires the County Board of Commissioners to purchase them. The other provides a bond issue or other means of financing the purchase.

Capt. Quackenbush said the 13 ships which took part included the flagship Mt. Olympus, an aircraft carrier, two icebreakers (one of which was a Coast Guard vessel), one submarine, two seaplane tenders, two oilers, two cargo ships and two destroyers.

Describing the magnitude of the Navy operation, Capt. Quackenbush pointed out that four months of planning was necessary and that the expedition itself took five and one-half months. One of the ships spent 47 days at sea in making the voyage to Little America, he added.

Capt. Quackenbush has already visited Roanoke and Washington on his speaking tour. Next week he will give talks in Charlotte, Charleston and Winchester.

WESTERNPORT —Fire of undetermined origin yesterday destroyed a frame barn on the farm home of Arthur Braithwaite about one mile south of Westernport.

Mrs. Braithwaite, who discovered the fire about 4 p. m. had to run about half a mile to telephone the alarm.

Firemen of Potomac Fire Company No. 2, Westernport, and Tri-Towns Fire Company No. 1, Piedmont, fought the flames with water from booster tanks filled by bucket brigades from a nearby stream, but arrived too late to save the frame structure. The home, about 40 feet away, escaped damage.

"I am well aware of the political difficulties of eliminating the New Deal social legislation. It cannot be repealed at a single stroke."

Eight Point Social Program

Mr. Truman offered an eight-point program of social legislation:

1. "We should repeal the Taft-Hartley Act.
2. "We should increase the minimum wage from 40 cents an hour to at least 75 cents an hour.
3. "Social security insurance should be extended to the large groups of people not now protected.
4. "The insurance benefits should be increased by approximately 50 per cent.

4—The blockade would be lifted 48 hours after the approval of the recommendation and a Council of Foreign Ministers meeting would be called promptly to discuss Berlin and Germany as a whole.

In contrast to the bitter struggle over Berlin, peace and good will reigned for a change in the United Nations Assembly's Political Committee. The committee agreed that a Mexican resolution calling on the five great powers to compose their differences and work for peace was good. The delegates sent it off to a subcommittee, which took only an hour to polish it. It will be voted on later in the full committee.

While The UN Security Council Continues To Wait

The Berlin dispute which was placed before the UN Security Council last week, has now been placed in the hands of the Four Powers in the form of a new formula for settling the Berlin crisis. The plan which has been framed by the six neutral members of the United Nations group is just another effort to have the problem settled outside the United Nations. In view of their past history of rebuffs, the neutrals are in some danger of repudiating, in effect, the main function of the Security Council, which is to pass judgement on threats to the peace.

The neutral effort to have the blockade lifted, in return for resumption of four-power discussions of the whole German problem, was once rejected by Russia, on the confused ground that there is no blockade and that the UN has no right to discuss a Berlin blockade. The Russian note did, however, repeat Stalin's directive of August 30, in which he agreed to lift the blockade if Russian currency, under four-power control, were issued in the Berlin area. That plan has been advanced again. While appearing "eminently satisfactory" to the Western Powers, there is no indications that it will be approved by Russia except conditionally. It has been submitted to Moscow for consideration.

The Western powers had agree to that at the end of August, but a settlement fell through because Russia added new conditions, including Soviet control of air traffic between Berlin and the West. The neutrals, therefore, now try to discover whether Russia is now ready to abandon those new and impossible conditions.

The questioning maneuver was rejected by Vishinsky, who accused the neutrals of trying to "trap" Russia into discussing the Berlin dispute before UN. That rebuff was naturally resented by the neutrals' spokesman, Juan Bramuglia. But the recuperative powers of Dr. Bramuglia—or of his chief, Dictator Peron, in Argentinia—is remarkable. The Argentine is now planning another formula, with the practical certainity of having it, too, rejected.

Any plan that offers a shred of hope of settling the Berlin dispute peacefully should be encouraged. But this obstinate charging of Soviet windmills is making some UN members restive. The Security Council has a vital function to perform under the UN Charter.

The fact that Russia will oppose any judgement against herself and will veto its practical application does not absolve the United Nations of its moral and legal duty to decide whether or not a country is threatening the peace.

An 86-year-old New Jersey man has entered college, while a 76-year-old Minnesota ditto has made a parachute jump. And some people continue to worry about juvenile delinquency.

The Leaves Have Turned To Accentuate Fall Season

The Californians love to talk about the flaming bougainvillea and the southerners sing the praises of the magnolia blossoms of Spring. When the laurel and rhododendron bloom, the mountains about us swim in beauty, and brilliant yellow paints the slopes of the Rockies after the aspens turn in the late September. But right now the most gorgeous play of color in the world brightens the hills of Cumberland and the wide expanses of the tri-state area.

We envy those poor souls who have never seen the maples in October. The natives of the midwest who exclaimed over the green landscape and trees, as they motored east on vacation, ought to see them now. The Fall coloring in and about Cumberland has seldom, if ever, been more beautiful.

In the crisp Autumn air the leaves of the oak dance, a rippling deep red that contrasts with the ochre of the sycamores. The maples run a gamut from scarlet to orange and yellow, with crimson interspersed. And there are other hues from the buckeye, tulips, ash, hickory, walnuts, beeches and elms, all of them set off against a background of hazy blue distances and dark green of evergreens and other trees that have been slow in turning.

It has been said that April and October are the two best seasons in this part of the east. We will not argue the point. This is October and the landscape is a painter's palette daubed with the concentrates left over from Summer's rainbows. We would not trade it for the grandest scenery anywhere else.

Russia might get along better by giving its teachers red apples instead of threats.

A Footnote To The Presidential Campaign

Keeping track of President Truman's campaign boners is a full-time job for any commentator on the political scene. We apologize for having passed over a beauty earlier in the presidential race. In Oklahoma City, on September 28, in the course of an attack on the Republicans for stressing "the Communist issue," Mr. Truman contended that American Communists have "lined up solidly to help put a Republican President in the White House." Mr. Truman himself reminded us by repeating that strange opinion at Indianapolis on his recent campaign tour.

Like the rest of the American populace, the people of Oklahoma City and Indianapolis know that the American Communists not only support Henry Wallace but are largely running his campaign for him. Lest there be any doubt on the point, we quote a statement of Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky, addressing the United Nations Political Committee at Paris last week. Stung by Western recollections that the Stalin-Hitler pact ushered in World War II, Vishinsky asserted that the New York law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell "played a big role" in helping to rebuild German industry between the two wars. As Vishinsky pointed out, that is the law firm whose senior partner is John Foster Dulles, member of the U. S. delegation at Paris, foreign affairs adviser to Governor Dewey and the governor's well-known choice for his Secretary of State.

Mr. Dulles is competent to defend himself against the Vishinsky asperations. We note the Russian's attack only as a refutation of the President's charge—a charge which is nonsensical on its face. All of which points up the question of the day: Who in the world writes those Truman speeches?

Color Blindness

An individual is said to be color blind when he is unable to interpret a series ofocolor vision test plates.

Dr. Van Dellen

In other words, special tests usually are required to diagnosis the codition and until these are made, the majority of victims are not aware that the disturbance exists.

Many of our service men during examinations for admission to the armed forces were surprised when they were told that they had the defect because they had never experienced any difficulty. They knew a red from a green light and could distinguish the colors on an average billboard or an advertisement in a magazine. Little did they realize that there was more than this to color vision. Consequently, when examined, they hesitated to name a certain color or when telling one shade from another. Some of the failures were due to color ignorance but the majority fell into one of several categories. a few were truly color blind because they could not see red, green, or violet. Others had difficulty in perceiving certain colors under varying conditions of light or in matching or blending a given hue. Only a very small proportion were absolutely indifferent to the entire spectrum.

The cause of the disturbance is not known but the Young-Helmholtz theory is the most popular. They believed that each color has its own nerve which conveys the rays to the brain to be evaluated. Since primitive men have no appreciation of color it is believed also that this sense has been acquired through centuries of development.

It is estimated that from six to eight per cent of all males are color blind and that the condition is a hereditary affair. Women are rarely afflicted, but they play a role by being a carrier and transmit the affliction to their male descendants.

Originally tests consisted of lamp lights and wool skeins dyed to a fixed degree. Later, cards were printed containing various figures painted the color which was being tested. These are surrounded by formations of related shades. Those who are color blind are unable to see figure because its color blends with the surrounding area.

At present there is no cure for this condition in spite of the ballyhoo to the contrary. Occasionally exceptions occur among those who are temporarily afflicted because of eye disturbance or a toxic condition resulting from the over-use of tobacco and alcohol. One of the most recent reports on an attempt to correct the deficiency was published by Gallagher and his colleagues.

These men gave special lessons to 49 individuals who failed to pass the test. After ten training sessions all but four were able to recognize the colors. It was temporary, however, because almost all of them failed when the test was repeated several months later. The authors concluded that training does not enable a color blind person to develope color sense comparable with a normal individual. Furthermore, it does not give him the ability to differentiate colors in all situations and under all conditions with the accuracy and speed possessed by those with normal vision.

The crooked joint can be straightened under anesthesia and placed in a cast for several days. Following this, movement of the part is started and continued until flexibility returns. Another procedure consists of stretching the knee as far as possible each day. But this is tedious and more painful and must be done by an expert who knows how to manipulate without doing further injury.

Secretary Forrestal Did His Best To Block Truman's Order On Military Reserves; Lobbyist Invades Tennessee To Support Carrol Reece

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Secretary of Defense James Forrestal had no comment for the press after he was ordered by the President to revitalize U. S. military reserves.

"The executive order relating to reserve components has not been received," Forrestal told reporters bluntly on Oct. 16. He wouldn't be able to comment, he apologized, until he had a chance to study it.

The real truth is, Forrestal not only had studied the directive thoroughly in advance but had done his best to stop Truman from issuing it.

The order was first sent over to Forrestal's office on October 9. Although the next day was Sunday, Forrestal marched over to the White House in a sweat. For reinforcement, he brought along Army Chief of Staff Omar Bradley.

They tried to talk the President out of issuing the order, but all Truman would promise was to hold it up until the following Thursday to give them a chance to make suggestions. Late Thursday night Forrestal came up with a barrage of recommendations that would have blasted the heart out of the order.

Except for a few minor points, these were rejected. The most important concession Truman made was to cite Forrestal's pet service, the Navy, for its excellent reserve program.

The President was out of town campaigning when the release was finally made by presidential assistant Dr. John Steelman. Yet even as late as the evening before publication, Forrestal was in Steelman's office still trying to block the directives.

Old Lobbying Tricks

Old lobbyists, like chickens, always come home to roost.

One of the oldest lobbyists, who has tried his hand at all sorts of little games, is Robert E. Smith, who once held forth in a swank mansion in Rock Creek Park where congressmen drank champagne and listened to sweet words whispered by the big utilities.

Smith was then lobbying against the Holding Company Act. When his lob-nest was exposed, he slipped quietly out of the limelight; only to come back later with another high-sounding name—"The National Conference of Investors," supposedly to protect the stockholders of the New Haven Railroad.

However, U. S. Judge Carroll Hinks of Connecticut soon punctured that. After exposing the way Smith had put his daughter on the payroll, made his son-in-law office manager, and paid a salary to himself, Judge Hincks stated:

"The dominant motive underlying the formation of this committee was the desire . . . to obtain a gainful retainer."

When this lobbying venture blew up, Smith conceived another high-sounding title—"The Life Insurance Policy-holders Protective Association." Under this letterhead Smith has scared enough insurance holders out of money to pay around $50,000 in expenses.

Mr. Smith Goes To Tennessee

Latest Smith operation has been to jump into the Tennessee senatorial campaign with a letter to insurance policy holders asking them to vote for GOP candidate Carroll Reece. The letter begins by inviting the policy holder to "serve as a member of our national advisory board." Since the mimeographed letter is sent to thousands of people the advisory board must be a gigantic one.

Continues lobbyist Smith: "We wish to call to your attention a matter which is of vital concern to every policy holder in the nation. This is the election of Mr. Carroll Reece as U. S. Senator from Tennessee."

"Carroll Reece," claims lobbyist Smith, "was quick to realize how fatal this 'New Deal' plan would be to those whose future is dependent upon their insurance."

The joke is that Reece, when a member of Congress served on the New Deal's temporary National Economy Committee, which conducted the most critical investigation of the insurance companies since the days when Charles Evans Hughes probed them in New York. The life insurance companies were cross-examined from stem-to-stern, with Carroll Reece not only participating but helping to appropriate more congressional money for the investigation.

Despite this, lobbyist Smith concludes his letter: "I shall appreciate a line as to your views on the probability of Mr. Reece's election. We are of course deeply concerned."

Note—The senatorial race between Reece and Estes Kefauver is one of the most interesting in the nation. Young Kefauver dared attempt what everyone predicted was impossible — successfully buck the Crump machine. After being defeated in the senatorial primaries, the boss of Memphis bolted the Democratic Party.

Kefauver is considered a young-and-coming Cordell Hull, while Reece got in wrong with many Tennesseeans because he opposed Cordell Hull's trade treaties. Reece, once an energetic congressman, in recent years has veered toward Taft isolation and was a vigorous Dewey opponent before and at Philadelphia.

Spanish Foreign Minister Snubbed

Spanish diplomatic representatives throughout Latin America worked diligently on their assigned task of trying to get additional invitations for Alberto Martin Artajo, Franco's Foreign Minister—without much success. Artajo came to Buenos Aires as a guest of the Peron government and his boss in Madrid was anxious to have him visit other Latin countries.

The going proved tough, however. Only Peru and the Dominican Republic came through with officials bids, and the Peruvian invitation aroused vigorous criticism in that country. Artajo was cool toward the idea of trundling all the way to the Caribbean just to get wined, dined and hugged by Dominican dictator Trujillo.

Invitations from Chile, Colombia and Bolivia were considered possible a few weeks ago, but the recently announced accord between Spanish monarchist and republican groups in exile caused these governments to back down.

So Franco's chore boy had to content himself with the somewhat patronizing hospitality of President Peron who now figures that Spain is just a rather wobbly tail to the Argentine kite.

Disappointed, he has flown back to Madrid.

Election Will Not Reverse Trend To State Socialism

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

The election will not reverse the trend to State Socialism. It can only check it—give us a breathing spell. There is a lot of socialism in the platforms of both the old parties. This is a mere statement of fact. Every public official has to work, to a large extent, like a fish in the sea, within the climate of the public opinion of his time.

If that were not so, this would not be a REPRESENTATIVE government; it could only be an AUTHORITARIAN government — one that overrides public opinion. In saying this, I do not defend the mere following of the latest Gallup Poll. A politician ought not to be a person held upright by equal pressure from all sides. But beyond a certain margin, no official can get too far out in front. If he does he gets knocked off. We should think now of 1950 and 1952.

Some Measure of Job

Look at the figures on the circulation of the most widely read Marxian book, the "Short Course on the History of the Communist Party"; 34,000,000 copies, 208 editions in 63 languages. Compare that with all the best sellers in America put together. That is some measure of the job we have before us.

Yet we have lost ground, neither through the strength of the collectivists, nor by reason of any fatally inherent defect in our institutions. We have been losing by default. It is only within the past few years that we have begun to see the failure and cruelties of collectivism and to defend the virtues of a free society.

The Bible says that as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he. So he lives and so he votes. If he thinks wrong, he will vote wrong.

Various polls show the following: That half our people believe everyone in Russia gets the same pay. Not a word of truth in it. Forty per cent believe business profits in this country are 25%, or more, of sales. Not a word of truth in it. Wage earners believe that if the salaries of management were reduced, their pay could be greatly increased. Wrong again. In the case of our largest manufacturer, executives' salaries are only $2 on a $2,000 automobile. Who is giving the answer to these falsehoods?

The responsibility is not that of the man on the street; the responsibility is on American business. The FACTS of the American economic system have got to be told by those who KNOW the facts.

Institutions Based On Faith

All of our institutions are based on the faith that the man on the street, if you give him both sides of the story, and are honest and truthful about it, will come up with the right answer.

The jury system, hundreds of years old, is based on the faith that if you take twelve men from the body of the people, and put them in a jury box and give them both sides of the question, they will come up with the right answer.

Abraham Lincoln said: "Why should there not be a patient confidence in the ultimate justice of the people? Is there any better or equal hope in the world?" Is there?

But the ultimate justice of the people—the desire to do the right thing that is found in every jury box—and in every American home, must depend on the facts being given to them. That is the job for the next four years.

U. S. Policy To "Contain" Russia Within Own Borders

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—War is not necessarily the logical sequel to continued friction between the United States and Soviet Russia.

George Kennan, director of the policy planning staff of the Department of State and the man who is generally credited with being the author of America's policy of trying to "contain" Russia within her own borders, has just made a rather informative speech.

Mr. Kennan originally wrote an article for the magazine "Foreign Affairs" which was signed "Mr. X." He outlined extensively his ideas on America's future policy toward Russia. The article attracted world-wide attention. Since that happened nearly two years ago, he has been an influential factor in the shaping of American policy. What he says, therefore, today is particularly significant of the Department of State's thinking. In addressing the Herald-Tribune's forum in New York, Mr. Kennan declares:

"We have now reached one of the most complicated and delicate phases of this long and difficult effort. We have been compelled to place before the United Nations a matter of great seriousness which it had proven impossible to compose by peaceful means outside of the United Nations. We were aware that this would constitute a severe test of the organization, and one which we would have preferred to have spared it. But we had no alternatives other than to meet the threat of force with action in order to break the blockade of Berlin, or to do nothing at all and thus permit this threatening situation to develop in an ominous silence and uncertainty, conducive to every sort of alarmist speculation and hysteria."

Mr. Kennan goes on to say that this is a situation on the successful handling of which "hangs more than the removal of restrictions on the supply of a single city—there hangs the removal of one more great obstacle on the road to a world in which international organization can really function."

What Is America Going to Do?

But it is in the final paragraph of Mr. Kennan's speech that he discloses his answer to the oft-heard question—what is America going to do about it? he says:

"Either we must find means to bring wisdom to those whose thoughts are today oriented solely to the pursuit of political greatness, in the form of world dominion, or, if we cannot do this, and if these people remain stubbornly unwise, then we must persuade them, in their own interest, to stand aside and to permit the other peoples of the world to proceed at last with this business of the development of international association, for which the conditions of life in our time cry out so urgently and which have been so long delayed."

This is a return to the original concept which Mr. Kennan has had in mind from the beginning—namely, that if America could confine Russia to her borders and checkmate not only her territorial expansion but her efforts to infiltrate the governments of countries outside her own domain, the two systems could get along together on a sort of "live and let live" basis.

The fly in the ointment, of course, is that Russia must see the importance of staying within her own orbit. Up to now, there are no signs of a curtailment of Russian aggression, political or otherwise. At times in their history, the Soviets have relaxed their propaganda in other countries and have been content to let their "fifth column" work die down. Unless, however, the Russians can gain concessions by granting concessions, they are not likely to cease their intrusion in the internal politics of other countries, particularly France, Britain, Italy and Belgium.

Price Of Forebearance

The price of forbearance which Russia has hinted at from time to time is something in the neighborhood of ten billion dollars of German and Austrian reparations. Since this is considered fantastic by the western powers, the chances are that, as Russian intransigeance is continued, the opportunities for collecting even a modicum of reparations will diminish also. Already the blockade that is pinching the economic activities of the eastern German area now controlled by the Russians. Chances of exploiting that section are not as good as the Russians had hoped they would be.

All the forecasts about "standing aside" depend in the last analysis on whether any group of influence in the politburo decides to authorize some overt act that would throw the fat in the fire. Then all thoughts of preventing war by "standing aside" would necessarily have to be revised.

The important thing is that American policy visualizes a world in which Russia can pursue her own way provided she does not deliberately tread on the territory or rights of the western powers, including the United States.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THIS has been a curious campaign; few buttons, few posters, no very great excitement. Perhaps raido, television, the large corps of newspaper reporters following the candidates provide all that the public needs.

Perhaps it is because of the general feeling that the election is in the bag—which no election is until the votes are counted. Perhaps it is because no very significant issue has been debated. Mr. Dewey's plea for national unity is important, but it has not aroused a fervent response because it has not been pitched on a nationalistic level. Mr. Truman's attacks on the Eightieth Congress have been specious and therefore did not evoke stirring rejoinders.

Or maybe American politics is moribund. Maybe we have had too much of it. Yet this is a crucial election in American history for many reasons and one of them is that Mr. Truman has raised the issue of the relationship between President and Congress. His view is that Congress is bad when it does not follow the leadership of the President. Time after time, he says that he told Congress what to do and it would not do it. He seems to be totally sincere in his surprise, almost his shock ,that Congress has not accepted his leadership.

Nevertheless, it is the American system, clearly defined in the Constitution, emphasized by every step in our history, that there shall be a division between the executive and the legislative branches of government. The President is not constitutionally either the leader of Congress or even of his party in Congress. Practical operations and the use of patronage generally make him the leader of his party; high prestige and public acceptability give him an influence over Congress. But the constitutional system makes him a distinct and separate institution. In fact, the Constitution permits the President to be of one party; either or both houses of Congress to be of another party. The Constitution ignores parties.

However, whenever Congress and the President are of different parties, the country is in real trouble. Herbert Hoover might have saved us from the depths of depression had he not had a Democratic Congress for the second half of his term; Harry Truman might have done better had his Congress not been so divided. Some Presidents have a natural aptitude for getting along with Congress. Franklin D. Roosevelt dominated Congress from 1932 to 1937; then he met rebellion until the war came. Both Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson encountered great obstacles in their associations with Congress. Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge managed easily.

The Eighty-First Congress will be a difficult one for any President. The Senate may prove a stumbling block and it will take forbearance and statesmanship to put through any legislative program. No matter whether Dewey or Truman is elected, the problem will be the same because the majority party will hold its position by a thin margin.

Let us say that the Republicans are in the majority and that they can hold a maximum majority of seven. (This is high.) Of this possible seven, three are independent to the degree of being uncertain and one may be off the reservation altogether. The Democrats face the same problem because the Dixiecrats will be politically fluid and several Northern Democrats are weary of New Deal policies.

In a word, the Senate is likely to be, from the American historical standpoint, more normal; that is, independent of the executive, functioning as both an initiating and an over-ruling body. Many Americans have forgotten that that has been the role of the Senate during most of its existence.

The central figure, should Mr. Dewey be elected, will be Robert A. Taft of Ohio. Taft commands respect among his colleagues of both parties because of his intellectual competence and integrity. And being no longer a candidate for the Presidency, his natural tendency to fight for his own program will be accelerated. Mr. Dewey's problem will be to associate Taft's leadership with his own. Were Mr. Truman elected, it would be his impossible task to find a bridge to Senators Taft and Byrd—practically an impossibility. Neither Dewey nor Truman can have a subordinate Senate—as P. D. R. managed to have.

Little Things

In the midst of so much progress and advancement in the perfection of new ways to make life more comfortable, there is the danger that we may lose many of the most precious values in life. We are apt to forget about the little things which gave so much joy to those who have preceded us.

I can recall when we had none of these modern conveniences such as world wide telephones, radios, automobiles, and stream-lined trains. The farmer can sit in his home today and know instantly about the weather and events, both in his community and throughout the world. And the best entertainment is brought to his comfortable chair, after the day of work.

But with all of these wonderful gifts I wonder if we are as happy as we were when we had to sacrifice in many ways, and be content with the doing of little things that gave happiness both to us and to those whom we loved.

One of the great books of the world is that one by James Boswell, in which he tells the story of Dr. Johnson. It is filled with the wise sayings of this great man. Here is one that is famous: "It is by studying little things that we attain the great art of having as little misery and as much happiness as possible."

I still think of the kindness of a friend who had a single golden rose sent to me each day, as I was confined in a hospital several years ago. I never like my friends to give me expensive gifts. I like the little ones best, for they are fullest of meaning.

I have always felt that the backbone of a nation lies in its small towns and villages. And in the homes of these places the joy and love of little things are created. And no matter how wealthy or famous those who come from these places may later become, that same enthusiasm for little things remains.

Little things are often the significant things that make life worth while. A word of encouragement, a flower—a letter.

Court Waits For Boy To Grow Up

BURY, England—(AP)—Four-year-old Stephen Jones has 17 years to save up $3 to pay a judgment.

The obligation grew out of an incident involving a stone about the size of a peach and the glass frame of a green house. The county court held Stephen and the stone were responsible for a smashed pane of glass.

Then the law took a curious twist. The action, it was held, was against Stephen, not his father. And the judgment was against Stephen. But a judgment cannot be collected from a legal infant, so the greenhouse man has to wait until the boy is 21 before he can collect.

British Uncover Age-Old Murder

BRIGHTON, Eng., (AP)—Ritual murder 35,000 years ago by English savages is believed to have been the fate of a woman whose spear-pierced skull has been found buried under hundreds of tons of rock in a cave near Whaley, in Derbyshire.

A. L. Armstrong, who calls the woman "The Mysterious Lady of Whaley," uncovered the remains. He announced his find in a lecture to the British Asociation meeting here.

"The woman lived before the last ice age and she may have been a chieftainess or a witch doctor," he said. "She had been beheaded and her skull was deliberately buried in a box formed by rock slabs."

The 66th annual convention of the Women's Missionary Society of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Maryland closed yesterday afternoon with the election and installation of officers.

The officers were installed in St. Luke's Lutheran Church by Mrs. F. Lee Fresh, member of the general board of the Women's Missionary Society. Mrs. W. V. Garrett, Frederick, was re-elected president. Other officers re-elected are Mrs. Frank Weibl, Hagrstown, vice president, and Mrs. Earl P. Fertig, Baltimore, treasurer.

New officers include Mrs. Henry Wilson, Martinsburg, W. Va., recording secretary, and Mrs. William Muehlhouse, Washington, D. C., historian.

Two hundred and fifty-eight delegates and guests attended the convention which began with registration Wednesday morning.

Also on the program at yesterday's meeting was a speech by Miss Alice Nickel, missionary to India, and a report by Deaconess Sister Martha Hanson of the Mother House, Baltimore.

On Wednesday, following the administering of communion by Rev. Dr. Hall Sharp, pastor of the host church, the business of the conference began. Rev. Howard Alsdorf, missionary to China, was the main speaker.

Delegates to the triennial convention next October in Grand Rapids, Mich., were elected with one local woman, Mrs. Donald F. Brake, in the group. Others in the delegation are Mrs. Andrew Theisz, Mrs. Dwight Wahaus, Mrs. Raymond Miller and Mrs. W. E. Fox.

Miss A. Barbara Weigand, Washington, spoke at a dinner Wednesday in the church hall served by the ladies society of St. Luke's. She spoke on The World Council of Churches at Amsterdam, to which she was a delegate. The evening address was given by Rev. Dr. Henry Cornehlsen, Jr., who served as commissioner to China under the Lutheran World Federation.

Among those attending the sessions were four conference officers, Mrs. Ezra N. Stirewalt, Washington, Eastern; Mrs. Charles H. Corbett, Thurmont, Middle; Mrs. James Hendry, Hagerstown, Western, and Mrs. James McNeill, Jr., Frostburg, Mountain; and the president of the Maryland Synodical, Rev. J. Frank Fife. Rev. Fife gave a short talk at yesterday morning's session.

Brother Clement Transferred To Washington, D. C.

Brother G. John, at present in charge of St. John's School, Orange, N. J., will succeed Brother E. Clement as principal of LaSalle High School. He is expected to arrive in Cumberland this weekend.

Brother Clement, who has been principal at the local school since September, 1945, has been appointed principal of St. John's College, Washington, D. C., and will leave here Saturday afternoon to take up his duties Monday.

Brother Emilian James, Ammendale, Md., provincial of the Brothers of Christian Schools, made no mention of the reason for the unexpected transfer of Brother Clement in his announcement. This is an unusual development as such appointments are generally made at the beginning of a school year, but it is believed to be due to the need of St. John's for a leader of the personality and ability of Brother Clement who has made an enviable record here.

Alumnus Of St. John's

Brother Clement is an alumnus of St. John's, a military school with an enrollment of 500 boys, and attended Catholic University following his graduation. He later served as instructor at several Christian Brothers schools in the east before coming here in 1945 from LaSalle Central High, Philadelphia.

Brother John is a native of Scranton, Pa., and received his bachelor and master degrees at Catholic University. He was made director of LaSalle Central in Philadelphia in 1946, and became director of St. John's at Orange in 1947. He has also taught at St. John's in Washington, LaSalle College and Scranton University. At LaSalle College he was active in Parent-Teacher Association and "Men of LaSalle" work.

Expresses Appreciation

"I hope to contact as many of my friends as possible either by letter or phone during the next few days," Brother Clement said in a statement yesterday, "to thank them for their work on behalf of the school, but I know I cannot reach all of them in such a short time and I'm taking this means of expressing my appreciation.

"It is with much regret that I leave Cumberland. Working with the boys at LaSalle and with the people of Western Maryland for the past three years has been a real pleasure. The spirit and the cooperation of the boys of LaSalle and their parents is unparalleled. Their genuine spirit of cordiality, their sincerity and their deep sense of loyalty have been an inspiration to me. I shall always cherish fond memories of the people of Western Maryland.

"Though I could never adequately thank the people for all they have done for me and the Brothers I do wish to express my sincere appreciation for their kindness. I am particularly grateful to the members of the LaSalle Mothers Club, to the Men of LaSalle and other organizations who have done so much for the school."

Husband Refuses To Testify After Charging Wife

Theodore Crabtree, 33, off the 900 Block Maryland Avenue, refused to testify against his 22-year-old wife, Mrs. Dorothy Crabtree, yesterday in Circuit Court on her appeal from a six-month sentence imposed in Juvenile Court. Crabtree had obtained a warrant for her arrest in June on charges of neglecting four young children.

After her arrest and hearing before Magistrate Thomas E. Stakem she was sentenced to six months in the Maryland Reformatory for Females. Mrs. Crabtree appealed the sentence.

A number of witnesses for the state testified that the Crabtree children, ranging in age from two to five years, were often on the street late in the night and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Jewell told the court that they had taken in the children during snowy weather and they did not have on shoes and were not warmly dressed.

Since the hearing in Juvenile Court, a divorce bill has been filed in court by Crabtree against his wife, according to statements in court this morning.

Judge Bruce inquired as to the welfare of the children and when being informed that Mr. Crabtree had a couple living at the home who took care of the children and his wife's relatives were taking care of the youngest child, he suspended the six month sentence against the wife and warned her to be of good behavior.

The young wife told the court she had married when she was 15 years old. She said she "wouldn't go back with her husband" when Judge Bruce asked her if there was hope of a reconciliation in view of the husband's refusal to testify against her.

In another case heard in Judge Bruce's chambers, Sheldon Sandvik, 15, of Vale Summit, was ordered committed to the Maryland Training School for Boys on a charge of being a delinquent minor. Sandvik was arrested by State Trooper William F. Baker after he attacked Maggie Korvich, 64-year-old farm woman on the Hoffman Road.

Sandvik had been ordered committed to the institution by Magistrate Thomas E. Stakem and the hearing this morning was on an appeal by the youth. Judge Bruce commented that there were several factors in the case which he could not overlook and affirmed Magistrate Stakem's verdict.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can a boy and girl be "just good friends"?

Answer: Of course. That's the natural relationship between young people of different sexes before they are old enough to fall in love and marry. One unhappy result of the over-emphasis on "romance" in the movies and in current fiction is that boys and girls so often are encouraged to think they're "in love" with each other when all that they really feel is friendship, plus some normal physical attraction. But the more that older people worry over adolescent "crushes," the more likely the youngsters will be to take themselves too seriously.

Can emotion really make you ill?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Forrest H. Harrison, clinical director of the Delaware State Hospital, Farnhurst, Del. No "emotional reaction" (fear, anger, or love, for instance) can take place without corresponding alterations in the body's physiology. Emotional conflicts not only affect the working of bodily organs, but in time leave their imprint on the tissues and may cause organic ailments which in turn create new emotional problems. Every practising physician ought to be familiar with "the psychic elements in disease."

Should you ask a friend for money that he owes you?

Answer: As a rule that depends upon whether you would rather have the money or his friendship, and the harder it is for him to pay, the greater the chance of a strained relationship. It is a fact of human nature that it's just about impossible to like a person toward whom you feel guilty, especially if he acts so as to make you feel ashamed of yourself. Even if you believe your friend has the money, you had better ask it from him as a favor, for if he thinks you're implying that he's not quite honest, he'll never forgive you.

Recession Anticipated

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—(AP)—A majority of economists polled by F. W. Dodge Corporation expects a business recession in 1949. Most of these believe such an adjustment will be moderate while a sizable minority don't think any recession is in sight next year.

Gen. Devereux Is Named To Training School Board

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 21 (AP) — Gov Lane appointed Brig. Gen. James P S. Devereux, retired Marine hero, to the borad of managers of the Maryland Training School for Boys yesterday.

Devereux, Wake Island commander at the outset of World War II, lives near Pikesville.

He succeeds Albert Stark, Baltimore builder, on the board. His term runs until 1951.

Football is believed to have originated in England in the 11th Century.

Sees Demos Voting GOP

BECKLEY, W. Va., Oct. 21—(AP)—Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., (R-Mass) predicted here last night that millions of Democrats would vote for the Dewey-Warren ticket because "they, too, are tired of the bureaucratic bungling and waste of the Truman administration."

The pigeon pea is a genus of plants of which there is only one species. It is native to the East Indies, but is cultivated in the West Indies and Africa. The plant annualy drops its leaves and reproduces new ones with its flowers. The seeds are among the most valuable tropical kind of pulse.

The six teams in the National Hockey League will play 60 games apiece during the 1948-49 season.

Three men of this area have enlisted for service in the 17th Airborne Division and will be sent to Camp Picket, Va., today to begin service, Lt. George J. Gocke, Army and AAF recruiter, said.

The 10-year-old son of State Trooper and Mrs. G. M. Colored Veterans May Enlist In Army

Cumberland has been assigned a quota of four in a special campaign to be held between now and November 30 by the United States Army to enlist colored troops with previous service.

The local quota will be two men for the European command and two for the Far East command, Lt. George J. Gocke, USAF recruiter, announced.

Taxi Stands Abolished On North Liberty Street

Taxicab stands on North Liberty Street will cease operations beginning today and work will begin early next week on reverting South Mechanic Street into a two-way thoroughfare, according to Lt. Edwin R. Lilya, head of the Traffic Division of the Cumberland Police Department.

Both moves, Lt. Lilya pointed out, are being made to avoid congestion and alleviate other traffic problems here. Parking on South Mechanic Street will be prohibited beginning next week, he said, adding that speeding signs were placed on Bedford Street and Oldtown Road yesterday to curb violations.

His announcement followed the report of Chief R. Emmett Flynn who said yesterday that all outstanding parking privilege permits will be revoked as of October 25, and warrants will be issued for motorists ignoring traffic tickets more than 48 hours.

Love Song Helps To Reunite Couple

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 21 (AP)—A 34-year-old Grand Rapids doctor, object of a nationwide search since his disappearance in March, 1947, was reunited with his family today because of a love song.

The story had its beginning in 1947 when Dr. William Aston headed for the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota for a personal physical checkup and to some medical work.

He never got there and his wife, Patricia, 28, enlisted police aid in efforts to locate him.

Dr. Aston's car was found three months later in Norfolk, Va., but no trace of him was uncovered.

As the trail grew cold, Mrs. Aston returned to her job as a nurse in Blodgett Memorial Hospital and concentrated on her two daughters, Patricia, five, and Kathy, three.

Tuesday night she had just finished the family washing and was about to go to bed when the doorbell rang. When she opened the door, Dr. Aston stood there.

After a joyous reunion, Dr. Aston told his wife he was in a Chicago restaurant Monday night when he heard a juke box playing a song "Because" that had been played at their wedding.

In that moment, he said, he suddenly remembered his true identity. He telephoned his wife but was unable to contact her and came to Grand Rapids by bus the next day.

The doctor said he could recall nothing of the events from the day he walked out of his Grand Rapids home in 1947 until the time he heard the music in Chicago. He could not recall the name of the restaurant or in which section of the city it was.

For the first theatrical production in Idaho territory, William Tell, two men had to travel 46 miles to secure fiddle strings for use in the musical numbers.

Moorefield Plans Lights For Ball Park

MOOREFIELD—A public meeting will be held at Moorefield High School auditorium Friday night, November 5, to lay preliminary plans for lighting Moorefield Ball Park.

A committee consisting of John Williams and Hink Fisher of the American Legion; W. D. Grafton, Moose Lodge; Coach Jonathon Paugh and R. S. Dispanet, Board of Education, and R. J. Bean, Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company, met this week to plan for the meeting.

The project for lighting the ball park for night events will cost about $18,000.

Christmas Mailing Deadlines Set By Postoffice

Persons who have friends and relatives living far from Cumberland had better start giving thoughts to their Christmas presents right away, according to postal authorities.

Christmas packages going to Japan and Korea should be dispatched not later than November 1 and plainly marked "Christmas parcel" to assure delivery before December 25, Acting Postmaster C. William McDermott, of the local postoffice said yesterday.

Parcels directed to other overseas destinations should be posted by November 15 if St. Nick is to be beaten to the draw.

Well in advance of December 10, mailings to distant states should be dropped in the mail box. Greeting cards for local delivery should be mailed not later than December 15.

Packages going overseas must not weigh more than 70 pounds. Other regulations forbid packages being mailed that are more than 100 inches in length and girth combined.

If you are sending a package overseas, see that it is well packed, McDermott said. Metal, wooden, solid fiberboard and double-faced corrugated fiberboard boxes are recommended. Perishable items are not accepted—and intoxicants, inflammable materials, poisons, or items which may kill or injure a person or damage the mails also are prohibited.

Don't send food or clothing to members of the armed forces. Postal men said they are amply provided with those items. Cigarets and other tobacco products also are forbidden for overseas mailing to Germany, France, Australia, Italy and Trieste.

"Take care of your Christmas mailing early and avoid being caught in the late season rush," concludes the postmaster.

Local Girl In Play

Miss Betty M. May, a graduate of Fort Hill High School, is a member of a cast of 15 students who will present Ferenc Molnar's romantic comedy, "The Swan," at Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. May, 761 Maryland Avenue.

Cold Snap Brings Milk Shortage

The local supply of milk is about 1,000 gallons less than required for the citizens of the Cumberland area because of the recent cold snap, according to officials of local dairies.

John D. Liebau, manager of the Queen City Dairy, said that in the milkshed which supplies the Cumberland area there has been a noticeable drop in production because cold weather always brings on such a situation.

He noted that in Somerset county, Pa., and in Garrett county there was snow the past few days and cows had to be moved from pasture to stables for feeding. The change over to dry feed always results in a drop in milk output, he pointed out.

Dairies in Cumberland must obtain additional milk supplies from sources outside their regular channels, Liebau said.

The milk consumed in Cumberland totals at least 8,000 gallons daily. A large part of the milk supply for Cumberland comes from nearby Pennsylvania points.

The output in Cumberland is also larger during the school year as hundreds of pints of milk are used by school children in connection with the hot lunch program at most schools.

The supply is expected to rise some when cows become more used to dry feeding. Milk supplies during the summer months were good as pastures in this area were in the best shape in many years.

Officials of the Allegany County Artificial Breeders Association report that the program of breeding dairy cattle in this county by use of prize bulls kept at the University of Maryland Agriculture College will eventually increase the milk supply.

Cows bred from the bulls at the university have produced almost twice as many pounds of milk as those cows bred by lower grade bulls.

Veal Bangor With Rice A Dish To Draw Compliments

Much can come of veal when it is surrounded with a luscious sauce and is keeping company with rice. This one fills the bill for a family dinner but it also has great merit as a buffet supper dish when company comes. The fact that most of the preparation can be done ahead of time wins consideration from the "cook" who likes to get a meal on the table without last minute flurry. The new quirk of scattering toasted chopped nuts on the top of the ring of rice, will make it a conversation piece for time to come.

Veal Bangor, with Rice

Two pounds of veal steak, cut thin; one medium onion, chopped; one-half cup or a small can of mushrooms; two cups tomato juice; four tablespoons margarine, butter or shortening; flour for dredging meat; salt and pepper to taste; three to four cups hot cooked rice; one-half cup coarsely chopped nut meats.

Cut veal steak into serving pieces. Dredge well with flour that has been seasoned with salt and pepper. Melt fat in a large skillet. Add onion and saute until the onion has become yellow. Take onion out and set aside to be re-added later. Have fat in the skillet medium hot. Add floured veal. Always brown veal slowly. Turn meat so the pieces will brown on all sides. Don't hurry it too much. If more fat is needed for the browning, it can be added but sometimes the veal will have enough fat attached to provide that extra bit. The sauce shouldn't be too greasy when finished.

When all the meat is browned, add tomato juice and the onions that were taken from the skillet. Cover and simmer slowly until the veal is tender. This takes about an hour. Add canned or sauteed mushrooms the last ten or fifteen minutes of cooking time. It may be necessary to add more liquid and it can be tomato juice, water or the juice from the canned mushrooms, if they are used. When done the sauce around the veal should be of the consistency of thick gravy.

Rice Livens Meat Loaf

It's hard to imagine what homemakers would have done if the meat loaf had never been invented! Here is a good combination and a topping that makes a piquant delicious meat loaf.

The secret of this super dish is that it uses one and one-half cups of cooked rice. If you don't already have some rice prepared and waiting in your refrigerator, here's a method that will save you time and give perfect results.

FLUFFY WHITE RICE

Put one cup rice, one teaspoon salt and two cups of cold water in a two-quart saucepan and cover with a tight-fitting lid. Set over a hot flame until it boils vigorously. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and simmer for 14 minutes more, during which time the water will be absorbed, making the rice deliciously tender. Remove the lid, permit the rice to steam dry to the desired consistency and the grains will be separate and fluffy. Never stir rice, but lift rice gently with a fork when testing its consistency.

PIQUANT MEAT LOAF—

One pound ground smoked ham; one pound ground veal; two well-beaten eggs; one and one-half cups cooked rice; one and one-half cups milk; one-eighth teaspoon pepper; one teaspoon salt if the ham isn't too salty.

Top Dressing: One - third cup brown sugar; one-fourth cup vinegar; one tablespoon dry mustard.

Mix all the ingredients for the loaf together, beating the eggs into the milk. It makes rather a soft mixture. Pour into a well-greased loaf pan and pat down so the top is even.

Combine brown sugar, mustard and vinegar. Pour over the top of the loaf and bake one hour at 350 degrees.

Candy Biters Finally Bitten

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—It took a dentist to do it, but they finally found out who was biting the candies.

The owner of a chocolate factory told police he was getting complaints about halfeaten bonbons in the package. Inspector Enrique Vigliore recovered some of the evidence and called in the Police Clinic dentist.

The dentist took impressions from the candy factory employes, matched them with the tooth marks in the candy, and two girl employes confessed they had been swiping surreptitious bites. Sentence was suspended.

To Prepare White Fluffy Rice

Put one cup rice, one teaspoon salt and two cups of cold water in a two-quart sauce-pan with a tight-fitting cover. Set over a hot flame until the water boils vigorously. Then reduce heat as low as possible and simmer for 14 minutes more. During this time the rice will absorb all the water, making it as tender as young love. Never use a spoon on rice, but always fork it up to keep it fluffy.

To Serve:

Place the veal with the gravy on a hot platter and surround with the hot fluffy rice. Heat the nut meats slightly in melted butter or margarine and scatter them over the rice. Garnish with parsley.

Use as many nuts as you like—the more the better, up to a certain point, and if mushrooms are not desired, supplement with coarsely chopped celery, sauteed along with the onions, removed, and put back in the sauce with the onions.

Stuffed hamburger is an economical hot luncheon dish for coooler days. To make it, mix about a pound of hamburger with one egg and salt and pepper for seasoning. Press about half the meat mixture into greased custard cups. Then put in a layer of stuffing made with fine bread crumbs. Cover with the remaining meat mixture. Set custard cups in a pan of water and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes.

Here's an easy way to make pizza pies for that foreign flavor in the supper menu. Use a roll mix to make the dough. Pat the dough into a skillet, top with slices of cheese and sliced meat, adding a generous dash of colorful chili sauce. Then bake the pizza at 300 degrees F. about 20 minutes.

October is donuts-and-cider time. The man who is credited with originating the hole in the donut is Sea Captain Hanson Gregory of Pre-Civil War days. The story goes that his mother's fried-cakes failed to cook in the middle and he thrust a kitchen fork through the center. Thus the "sinker" was created

Halloween Parties Are Simple; Give Children Safe, Exciting Night

Witches flying, black cats howling and ghosts appearing make an exciting Halloween night for children. When little Junior comes running in and asks for a party—don't disappoint him by saying it is too much work. A party for children can be planned easily around pumpkin cookies.

A few days before the party make small witches. From pipe cleaners, gum drops, black poster and crepe paper — inexpensive to make but very gay and exciting. Fashion a body with pipe stems and add gum drops for the head, feet and hands. With the poster paper, make a stove pipe hat and use the crepe paper for her dress and hair.

Pumpkin cookies are especially easy for younger children to manage. They are particularly good and easily decorated with raisins, nuts or orange icing.

Halloween Party

Apple Juice Pumpkin Cookies
Chocolate Ice Cream or Pumpkin Tarts with Whipped Cream

Pumpkin Cookies

¾ cup shortening
1½ cups sugar
1 egg
1 cup canned pumpkin
3 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
Raisins

Cream the shortening and sugar thoroughly; add beaten egg and pumpkin. Stir in the dry ingredients which have been sifted together, and mix well. Form into small balls and place on a cooky sheet. Press into round flat shape with the bottom of a glass which has been lightly greased and floured. Make eyes, nose and mouth with raisins. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400°F) about 15 minutes. Yield: Five and one-half dozen.

Pumpkin tarts are good party fare for children or adults. Make in the morning and cool these spicy tarts until serving time. Add a topping of whipped cream and sprinkle a little grated chocolate on top.

Pumpkin Tarts

2 large eggs
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
1¾ cups canned pumpkin
1 cup evaporated milk
½ cup water
Pastry

Beat the eggs in a mixing bowl. Add sugar, spices, salt, and pumpkin; mix well. Add milk and water and stir until mixture is smooth. Fill 6 pastry lined tart pans with pumpkin mixture. Bake in a hot oven (450°F) for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate oven (350°F) and continue to bake about 45 minutes, or until mixture is firm and crust is well browned. Six tarts.

NOTE: One No. 2½ can pumpkin will make twelve tarts. If fluid milk is used, omit the half cup of water and use 1½ cups milk.

National Cranberry Week gets under way October 18. That's a cue for a Cranberry Ring made with a quick coffee cake batter. Spread the cranberry topping in the bottom of a well-greased nine-inch ring mold. Fort the topping, mix three-fourths cup of raw cranberries, one-half cup of sugar, and three tablespoons of melted butter of margarine. Pour batter over cranberry topping and bake in a moderately hot oven, 400 degrees F., for 25 minutes.

Male-Tested Rice Dish Has Extra Drawing Appeal

Any recipe that comes tagged as a man's favorite has extra drawing appeal. After all, homemakers the world over do most of their best cooking for the men in their lives. So, if a dish is one man's favorite—it might turn into a favorite of you man's, too.

This recipe gives a chance to experiment once on this angle of thinking.

The first thing to do is to prepare your rice. Here is a sure-fire, time-saving method I think you'll like.

Fluffy White Rice

Put one cup rice, one teaspoon salt and two cups of cold water in a two-quart saucepan and cover with a tight-fitting lid. Set over a hot flame until it boils vigorously. Then reduce the heat as low as possible and simmer for 14 minutes more, during which time the water will be absorbed, making the rice deliciously tender. Remove the lid, permit the rice to steam dry to the desired consistency and the grains will be separate and fluffy. Never stir rice, but life rice gently with a fork when testing its consistency.

Jere's Favorite Rice Dish

Three cups hot boiled rice; two cups milk; three tablespoons butter or margarine; three tablespoons flour; one teaspoon salt; dash of red pepper; one cup grated American cheese; one-half cup sliced olives.

Melt butter or margarine in the top of a double boiler or use a heavy saucepan. Blend in the flour until it is a smooth mixture. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly. Keep stirring and cooking until the sauce is as smooth as silk and has thickened.

Take from heat and stir in grated cheese. Stir until the cheese has melted. Add sliced olives.

Put rice in a greased baking dish and pour the sauce over it. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 24 minutes or until the sauce and rice have become in flavor as one.

This will serve four as a main dish and is perfect for a supper or luncheon, rounding out the meal with salad and dessert.

Arm Pot Roast

3 to 4 pound arm pot-roast; flour for dredging; salt to season; pepper to season; 3 tablespoons lard or drippings; water; 4 medium potatoes, unpeeled; 8 whole carrots, unpeeled; 8 onions, peeled; flour for thickening.

Dredge pot-roast with flour; season and brown slowly on all sides in hot lard or drippings. Add small amount of water, cover tightly and simmer gently, adding more water if needed. Cook slowing until tender, allowing 45 minutes to 1 hour per pound. About 45 minutes before the meat is done, add vegetables; cover and cook until vegetables are tender. Remove to hot platter and thicken liquid with flour. 6 to 8 servings.

Bismuth is a metallic element, possibly known to the ancients, but first clearly distinguished from tin by Basil Valentine in 1413.

Canned Peas Lend Zip To Hearty Soup

Soup in summer is rapidly becoming accepted as a good dish to keep the necessary minimum of hot food in the system. But plain old soup is sometimes uninteresting or uninspired. Try using canned vegetables, possibly left over from dinner and not enough to serve again, to perk up your soups and give them a "new look."

Canned peas pack a punch in a soup and give it a bright and new color that's a big improvement. For instance, try mushroom soup with canned peas and corn and pimiento—you have a hearty luncheon right there, with some crispy crackers and a dessert.

Mushroom And Pea Soup
(Serves 4)

1 10½ ounce can condensed mushroom soup
1 cup milk
½ cup canned peas
½ cup cooked or canned whole kernal corn
1 tablespoon diced pimiento

Blend mushroom soup and milk. Add remaining ingredients. Heat thoroughly, stirring frequently.

Sanitary District Is Considered At Westernport

WESTERNPORT — George L. Hall, Baltimore, chief engineer of the State Department of Health, held a conference with Mayor William C. Ravenkcroft and commissioners of Westernport and Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., delegate of the State Legislature and chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, at a meeting Wednesday night at the Westernport City Building.

The meeting was called for the discussion of the proposed Sanitary District Bill to be presented to the State Legislature in January.

That nearly half of the Town of Westernport's revenue is derived from the water system was pointed out.

The mayor and council take the position that they want to be exempted from the bill as far as the water system is concerned as they will not give it up to the sanitary commission or lose control of the water system. They do not want any condemnation features in the bill.

Hall was unable to give any approximate cost of a district system.

Hall will send the Mayor and Commissioners of the town and Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., town attorney, a copy of the bill so they may study it and make recommendations.

Delegate Whitworth stated, "The Allegany County delegation will be called upon in January for some legislation to relieve water conditions in LaVale and Cresaptown either in the form of municipal corporation or special taxing district. At that time we will hold hearings on any legislation submitted in Annapolis for a thorough study of the problem.

Others attending the meeting were Mr. Bingley and Mr. Shipp, of Hall's office; Dr. Winter R. Frantz, Cumberland, Allegany County health officer; Dr. Lewis Engle, Clarence McBee and George Kight, commissioners of the Town of Westernport, and Francis D. Class, town water superintendent.

Catches Big Bass

MOOREFIELD—S. J. Sions, La Vale, captured the largest bass of the season Saturday evening in the South Branch of the Potomac when he landed a six pound, 21 inch small mouth bass near Fox's Eddy.

Sions, son of E. G. Sions, Moorefield, was spending a few days here camping with Charles Welch, Cumberland, and doing some hunting. He killed several squirrels and then completed his day by catching the largest bass reported this year.

Barton Personals

BARTON — The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Clark, Jr., was baptised Sunday at the Methodist Church. The child, who was given the name Susan Felicity, wore a long white embroidered dress that had been worn by the mother at her christening. The mother is the former Miss Beryl Clark, Portchester, England.

Miss Alice McCormick, principal at Midland elementary school, remains ill at her home.

J. Donald Wilson is ill at his home.

Jewell Reports For Navy Cadet Training

The first Cumberland air recruit to be sworn in under the Navy's new Aviation Cadet program at the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, Washington, reported Tuesday for active duty orders and assignment to the next convening class at Pensacola, Fla.

He was graduated from Fort Hill High School in 1945 where he was active in athletics as well as holding the office of president of the junior and senior classes. He also attended Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va., where he majored in aeronautical engineering.

Drew Pearson Column Is "Must" Reading In Capital Of America

"Leaks" Keep Many On Merry-Go-Round

By LAWRENCE LADER
(Reprinted from Pageant magazine)

When a group of correspondents in the Nation's Capital were asked to name "the Washington correspondent who exerts through his writings the greatest influence on the nation," a few years back, Drew Pearson received over twice as many votes as those cast for the nearest runner-up.

Pearson's "Merry-Go-Round" is required reading among officials from the highest department heads to the newest clerks. This extreme urgency is due to the frequent presence of what is known as a "leak." Since the printing of such a piece of highly important news causes violent reprecussions, the general tone of the "Merry-Go-Round" often reads like Cecil B. De Mille's latest epic.

Pearson's network of leaks today is so comprehensive that instead of looking for news, most of it comes to him. If three top executives are closeted with the President, it is a safe bet that within an hour after the meeting breaks up, a full report of it will leak to Pearson. Late in 1945, for instance, Pearson received a phone call, announcing that the peace treaty with Japan would be signed aboard the battleship "Missouri." The caller made elaborate attempts to disguise his voice, but Pearson recognized it as a Cabinet member's. He used it immediately, beating the official announcement by 24 hours.

Read By 25,000,000

"The Washington Merry - Go-Round," is read regularly by 25 million readers. Its aura of patriotism is so heroic that the reader may be led to believe that its importance to the national welfare is on a par with Valley Forge. As a purveyor of Capital gossip, and explosive newsbeats, Pearson dates back to 1932 when the "The Merry-Go-Round was established. Pearson, the crusader, is a newer creation.

The war really brought Pearson into his own as a crusader. The Army "brass" are particularly fallible, and Pearson's attacks on their inefficiency, climaxed by the confusion in discharging GI's at the end of the war, made him into almost as great a hero as Eisenhower. In one day alone he received 30 thousand letters from soldiers in the Phillipines.

Associates of Pearson who is ordinarily a mild man, say that he becomes ferociously determined once he decides to carry out project. After conceiving the idea for the Friendship Train, he tried to find some official Government agency to take it over. Failing in this he decided to organize it himself. In 20 days Pearson had collected the staggering figure of $21,000,000 worth of food.

Pearson's seven columns and one radio broadcast dominate his week so completely that even when he and his wife are out to dinner, he hops from person to person to pick up items for "The Merry-Go-Round." His day usually starts at six in the morning. Many items for the day's column are on his desk and perused before breakfast. Pearson employs four men assistants and four women secretaries, but always writes the final column himself.

Dines Among Diplomats

From nine to twelve each morning, Pearson attends to business details before going downtown to lunch. He generally dines at the Mayflower, where diplomats and politicians, bursting with possible stories, are hidden behind every napkin. During the afternoon he makes the rounds of Government offices. Many important doors, such as Senator Pepper's and Senator Kilgore's, are always open to him. Equally important doors, such as Secretary of Defense Forrestal's, are just as tightly closed. At 4 P. M. the column is finished and ready to be put on the teletype machine to The Beall Syndicate, Inc., in New York. Even after the column has been dispatched he often telephones the Syndicate to make some last minute changes.

It is natural to expect that such a highly paid controversialist might stalk through Washington like an avenging angel. Yet detached from his role as commentator and columnist, Pearson is disarmingly mild. For a man whose radio income is $5,000 a week and the income from his column at least $1,500 a week more, the impact of Quaker simplicity is marked. In the city, Pearson dresses conservatively, in the country, in the oldest and most comfortable clothes he can find. Working at home in a pair of threadbare pants, his lank body eased into an armchair, Pearson hardly looks like the frightening gadfly whose rantings have chastened half the crowned head in Washington. Even the car he drives is a well-worn, 1941 Buick.

Three inventors have developed an artillery shell that listens and records what it hears, says the National Patent council.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Back in the days before lush-water got legal, I used to get my haircuts in an East Side barber-shop run by a gent named Dominic Constantino. Since Dominic went easy on both clippers and conversation, his tips were large, and his weekly drag-down was sufficient to provide the rent and ravioli for his wife and bambinos. And even, on occasion, to contribute a few bucks to his good-natured but chronically jobless brother, Antonio.

Billy Rose

Antonio was one of those seldom-do-wells who hung around the fringes of the big floating crap games of the era, making big talk and little side bets. And it was at one of these games that he got into an argument over a $10-bill and threw a punch at a beady-eyed bum known to the mayhem trade as Three-Fingered Louie. Louie said nothing, but two pin-points of color appeared on his high cheek bones, and next morning nobody was particularly surprised when Antonio's body was found with a thin, tight wire around the neck.

When Dominic heard of his brother's demise, he closed his shop for three days out of respect for the dead, and because, as he put it, "I no trusta myself widda razor." And when he reopened, he told every customer who would listen how he would cut Louie up and down if he ever got him into a barber's chair. His clientele advised him to pipe down if he didn't want the thin-wire treatment himself, and pointed out that Louie was personal bodyguard for Big Joe Raspberry who manufactured most of the imported whiskey sold in the uptown clubs. But Dominic went right on blowing his top, and after a while the barber's threats got to be something of a neighborhood joke.

A joke, that is, to everybody but the gent with the three fingers. One afternoon Louie walked into teh barbershop, yankde a half-shaved customer out of the chair and plopped himself down.

"I hear ya been talkin' big about watcha do if ya get me inna chair," he said. "Here's ya chance. Once ovah fast, an' rememba, I godda tenda skin."

The ousted customer and several others who were waiting settled back to watch. Under the barber's white sheet, they could see the outline of the gun in Louie's lap, and as Dominic honed up a straight razor, there wasn't much breathing in the shop.

For the next few minutes, the gangster's eyes followed every move of the barber's hand like iron filings toddling after a magnet. But the shave was an uneventful one—even the delicate work around the Adam's apple didn't draw a drop of blood—and whn Dominic finally sponged off Louie's face, patted it with Bay Rum and took off the sheet, the gunman stood up and tossed a half-dollar in the direction of the cash register.

"Keep th' change," he said.

"Don' wanna no change," said Dominic, handing him a quarter from the drawer.

But as Louie reached out for the coin, the barber grabbed his arm, ripped open his coat, snatched the gun from its holster and sent it skiddin galong the floor. "Inside, customa is always right," "but outside you ain't no customa."

And then, using his knees to good advantage, he collapsed Louie on his back and began paradiddling his skull against the base of his barber pole. And kept it up until the hoodlum's head looked like the makings for a meat loaf.

A few days later a black sedan with drawn shades drove slowly past Dominic's shop, and a clip of tommygun bullets shattered the plate-glass window. But fortunately everybody had hit the floor in time and there were no casualties.

That night, Dominic sent his family to visit some relatives in East Orange, and next morning the shop opened as per usual, except for the rough boards which he had nailed up in place of the plate-glass window. But naturally, trade fell off, and the few customers who continued to patronize the establishment decided to call it a day when somebody heaved a stench bomb through the door.

Dominic, however, kept his scissors sharp and his barber pole revolving, and assured his friends it was only a matter of time before business picked up again. And he was right—customers began flocking back to his shop the morning that Three-Fingered Louie was found in an alley, a neat red hole in his forehead. The police figured Louie was a gang war victim and listed the killing as unfinished but satisfactory business, but the East Side had a different theory, and there was much winking and whispering in the neighborhood. Particularly when Dominic brought his family back from East Orange.

All went well until the next black sedan pulled up in front of the tonsorial parlor. This time it was Big Joe Raspberry himself.

"I unnastan' yer the guy beat up Tree-Finga," he said. "Likewise I unnastan' ya put a hole in his head."

"Not me, boss," said Dominic. "I ain't even gotta gun."

"The way I hear it, ya got Louie's gun," said Raspberry, "but it's okay wid me. Dat Louie wuzza excitable fella, and he always made me noivous. I jus' come in ta tell ya ya gotta new job. Ya woikin' fer me."

"No, boss," said Dominic. "I lika my shop. Besides, I gotta family."

"Ya don' unnastan'," explained Big Joe patiently. "People is talkin'. Dey say ya beat up my bodyguard an' den shoot 'im. Well, unless I putcha on my payroll, I lose respeck."

"Sorry, boss," said Dominic firmly, "but I worka here."

Big Joe Raspberry stared at the roly-poly barber. Then he made one of those quick decisions which all leaders of men feel called upon to make occasionally. He took off his coat and eased himself into the barber's chair.

"Gimme a shave," he commanded. "Yer woikin' fer me. From now on, yer my barba."

After that, naturally, nobody bothered Dominic again.

Swiss To Help Mountain Climbers

GENEVA—(AP)—The Swiss are going to make it a little easier for unlucky mountain climbers.

They are installing wireless telephones at stations in remote mountain crags and crevices when the mountain climbers usually have their accidents.

Usually when someone is injured in the mountains, another member of the party must make a long descent into a valley to summon assistance. The new telephone apparatus will make it possible to dial any telephone in the valley for help and save valuable time.

The radio telephones will permit two-way conversations. Residents in the valley will be able to call the mountain stations at certain hours. Eight of the stations already are installed.

Some bacteria are less than one-hundredth-thousandth of an inch in diameter. Under the most powerful microscope these kinds can barely be seen as specks.

Gallup Poll

Steady Decline In Henry Wallace's Vote Is Traced In Opinion Polls

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 21—The steady decline in voting strength of Henry Wallace's Progressive Party has been one of the major features of the 1948 presidential election.

Measured in percentages of the total national popular vote, the Wallace following today is approximately half of what it was in January when his party was organized.

There are two aspects of this decline of strength which bear importantly on the national political scene:

(1) Mr. Wallace in recent days has been saying that the main purpose behind his candidacy is to lay the groundwork for a strong labor-progressive party in 1952.

(2) While the Wallace vote is small, it has from the beginning been a threat to President Truman's chances of re-election. Although Wallace will not come close to taking a single state, his vote will be an important factor in some areas, particularly in those states where the race between Truman and Dewey ordinarily would be expected to be close.

Wallace's greatest strength is in New York State where he polls approximately 12 per cent of the vote. Elsewhere, it ranges all the way down to less than one per cent of the South Carolina vote. The Progressive Party states Wallace is on the ballot in 45 states.

The decline in the Wallace vote can be seen in these figures:

(1) An Institute presidential "trial heat" last January gave Wallace seven per cent of the nation's total popular vote.

(2) Just before the major party conventions in June a similar poll revealed the Wallace vote had slipped to six per cent.

(3) In August, the Institute's first post-convention national standings of candidates revealed another drop to five per cent.

(4) Today, the latest poll shows a further decline to approximately four per cent.

Political significance of this decline is sharpened by comparing today's figure with results of a survey taken in June, 1947, when the Third Party was in the discussion stage. At that time 13 per cent of voters said they would vote for the presidential candidate, when and if the party were organized.

Today's Wallace vote is more nearly comparable to the 3.3 per cent of the popular vote polled by Eugene Debs, Socialist candidate in 1920, and the 2 per cent obtained by William Lemke, Union Royal Oak nominee, in 1936.

Institute surveys over the campaign period indicate two possible reasons for the relatively light vote which Wallace polls.

First, a survey before the political conventions found that many voters believed the Progressive Party was dominated by communist influences. Fifty-one per cent of all voters held that view, while 21 per cent disagreed and 28 per cent had no opinion. Even among groups to which Wallace makes his strongest appeal, such as young voters, independents and labor union members, substantial majorities of those with opinions felt the party was controlled by communists.

Second, the main features of the Progressive Party's foreign policy program appeal to small minorities of all voters. Overwhelming majorities of voters, for instance, believe the United States and the Western European allies should stay in Berlin, even if it means war with Russia. Wallace opposes this position, but almost half the people planning to vote for him agree with the general public's attitude.

Wallace opposed a military alliance with the Marshall Plan countries, while his followers are about evently divided on the subject. Again, a survey made when Congress was considering the Marshall Plan itself showed that approximately half of Wallace's supporters with opinions favored the Plan, although Wallace opposed it from the beginning.

Similarly, a substantial proportion of Wallace voters approved the new draft law which he opposse. Th Institute also found that a majority of his supporters agree with the general American sentiment that Russia would not hesitate to start a war to get her way. The Progressive candidate has on many occasions belittled the Russian threat to world peace.

Army Seeks Negroes With Prior Service

Four negroes with prior Army service may be enlisted at the local Army recruiting station until November 1 for assignment with the European Command and the Far Eastern Command, according to Lt. George J. Gocke, officer-in-charge.

The local office may enlist two men for each command, Lt. Gocke explained. However, men whose military occupational specialty is 017, 055, 502 or 566 are not eligible for enlistment in the Far Eastern Command, he said.

BE QUICK To Treat BRONCHITIS

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

How The Enemy Threw Up The Sponge

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The riddle of the empty Japanese beer bottles has been solved. So has the mystery of the concrete disks and the bamboo rafts and stepladders—all curious under-water obstructions. A. R. Cahn, General MacArthur's fisheries expert, says they were experimental devices in the growing of sponges.

Most mystifying to the Americans who went ashore at Ailinglapalap Atoll in the Marshall Islands were the dozens of wired beer bottles floating half a foot under water. The wires led to the bottles from cement blocks on the ocean bed—too widely spaced to be barriers to invasion. Around atolls at Truk there were concrete disks the size of dinner plates with aluminum wires reaching up into the water. Just the wires, no bottles. At Palau the Americans found under-water wire frames rooted in concrete blocks. Near other former Japanese-mandate islands were the wire-strung bamboo rafts and ladders, anchored under water. All these wires were threaded with hunks of sponge.

Cahn says he hunted up two Japanese for the full story. Much of the sponge cultivation was unsuccessful. But one Japanese expert estimated that Ailinglapalap could produce 2,000,000 sponges a year. Even better results could be obtained, the expert said, at Namoric Atoll in the Marshalls.

Brethren Church To Hold Special Services Sunday

Former Pastor To Deliver Sermon

FROSTBURG — Dedication Sunday will be observed October 24 by the Frostburg Church of the Brethren, located at the corner of Beall and Steyer Street.

The occasion will mark the completion of a new vestibule, an additional Sunday school room and two rest rooms to the church building, which was formerly the property of Grace M. E. Church, South.

The rededication program will consist of a morning worship service at 11 o'clock, with Rev. Newton D. Cosner, Akron, O., a former pastor, as guest preacher.

The home-coming service will be held at 2:30 p. m., and will consist of special music by the senior choir, directed by Mrs. Beulah Moody, and the junior choir under direction of Mrs. Connell Chaney. There will be congregational singing and greetings from former pastors.

A large number of visitors, principally from Garrett County, will be here for the occasion and will be assigned to local homes by Mrs. Charles McFarland and Mrs. Connell Chaney, who have charge of reservations.

Rev. O. F. Bowman, pastor, said that since the Church of the Brethren congregation purchased the present structure, the interior has been redecorated, new pews purchased, a central heating plant installed, an auxiliary gas unit placed in the Sunday school room and new altar furnishings provided. The church has 142 communicant members.

Rev. Bowman, the first full-time pastor of the congregation, is a native of Harrisonburg, Va., and a graduate of Bridgewater College and Bethany Seminary, Chicao, Ill.

The church was organized here August 26, 1928, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Robeson, with 17 persons in attendance. Since that time the church has grown steadily, many of its members being former residents of Garrett County who were affiliated with Brethren churches there before moving to Frostburg.

The congregation also owns its own parsonage, which is located on Steyer Street adjoining the church building.

Whitacre Fined $10 On Hazardous Driving Charge

ROMNEY, W. Va.—T. E. Powell, justice of the peace, fined Glenn E. Whitacre, 26, Gore, $10 and costs on a charge of hazardous driving after an accident involving two trucks and a car recently about four miles west of Romney.

It was brought out that Woodrow C. Toothman, 25, Shinnston, driving a truck was forced to slow down because of a slow moving truck ahead of him Clarence Wolford, 39, Romney, was driving a sedan behind him and was also forced to drive more slowly. A tractor-truck operated by Whitacre ran into Wolford's car causing him to hit the truck in front of him. Wolford was treated for leg injuries.

Mineral Lunch Plan Renewed

KEYSER — The Mineral County Public School hot lunch program is in operation again this year, according to Miss Marie E. McDowell, secretary in the office of the county superintendent of schools.

Eight of the county's 19 schools had the program in operation during September, and five more schools were scheduled to start serving lunches this month.

During September's 15 days of school 15,620 lunches were served with the charge ranging from 15 to 25 cents. The federal government reimbursed the schools at the rate of eight cents per meal. The government's allowance is one cent less than last year.

Type A lunches in which each child receives a half pint of milk, are being served in the county, Miss McDowell said.

Government surplus foods received by the county since the opening of the 1948-49 school term for use in the lunch program follows:

Sixteen cases orange juice, with 96 cans to a case; nine cases honey; 100 cases apple sauce, 106 bags of white potatoes, 49 boxes of dried peaches, 24 boxes of each of dried prunes, figs and raisins.

The program went into effect at Howard High School, Piedmont, this month. Other schools starting the program this month are Fort Ashby, High and Elementary, Lincoln Grade School and Fountain School.

Poultry Project Is Assured For Hardy County

Construction Work Will Begin Soon

MOOREFIELD—H. Gus Muntzing, chairman of the Pathological Diagnostic Laboratory committee, announced that the project was assured for Moorefield and that construction work would begin immediately. At the meeting this week plans and specifications were discussed and approved and the lot on the Rockingham Poultry Marketing Cooperative property was staked out.

Muntzing was instructed to proceed with plans in financing the new building which is estimated to cost $5000. The property will be in trust and rented to the State Department of Agriculture until arrangements can be completed through the legislature to purchase the building.

The laboratory will give relief to the poultry raisers in Hardy and adjoining counties. Plans for expansion of the poultry laboratory to a full scale laboratory for all farm animals in the future. The state of Virginia now has four such laboratories in operation.

Just Between Us

If He Isn't 'Special' There Is Little Use Taking Him Back

By NANCY MOTTRAM

(Q) "Dear Nancy: At the beginning of the summer, the boy I was dating found someone else. He started taking her out and I began to go out with different boys. About a week ago, he called me and asked me to go back with him. I wouldn't give him an answer then, because I didn't know what to say. He says he doesn't care for her any more, and that they've broken up. I don't feel about him the way I once did, and so I'd like some advice. Do you think I should tell him yes or no?

(A) If he doesn't mean anything special to you any more, why pick up your romance again? He can't expect you to come running back to him the minute he decides that's what he wants—after casually telling you that everything's over because a new gal has walked into his life. You would be wiser to tell him that you thought it over—and decided against it.

• — • — •

(Q) "Dear Nancy: For years, two other girls and I have gone around together. We've always gotten along well and have had very few quarrels. But gradually, they've dropped me right out of the threesome, with no explanation or reason. At first, I tried calling them up and asking them if they wanted to go to the movies or double date, but they always had "something else planned." I don't know what else to do. Please help me.

(A) The best thing would be to talk to one or both of them and find out exactly why they're acting this way. There must be something behind their snubbing you and it makes it worse not knowing what it is. You'll never know how to clear up the situation if you don't find out what's caused it. Try to get straight by asking them to be honest with you. A friendship that's lasted as long as this one is worth a lot. Don't let it disappear because you're afraid to ask why.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: I just started to go steady with a boy I've been dating for quite a while. Mother liked him when he was just another one of the boys I went out with, but now that h's given me his fraternity pin, she's cool to him when he comes over and never talks and laughs with him as she used to. He's noticed it and has asked me about it, but I told him it was just a mood and not to worry about it. Her attitude hasn't changed though, and I'm wondering what to do about it."

A) It's pretty obvious that she doesn't like the idea of your going steady. And she probably thinks that if she hints her disapproval you will hand back the pin. Have a mother-daughter chat with her soon and get her viewpoint. Once you understand each other, you can work out a solution to the problem, and his visits won't be under a shadow any longer.

Nancy will answer as many questions as possible in her column. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Central Booters Play Barton High

Flintstone Eleven Tests Bruce Today

The battle for first place in the W.M.I. League will be resumed today when the booters of Central High, Lonaconing, current pace setters, play Barton High in Lonaconing, and the runner-up Bruce High eleven plays host to Flintstone High School in Westernport.

A Bruce victory and a defeat for Central would enable Coach John "Chip" Grindle's team to regain first place in the five-club circuit.

Central launched its 1948 campaign with a 2-0 victory over Barton while Bruce scored a 5 to 1 triumph over Flintstone in the lid-lifter.

Coach Johnny Meyers' Central eleven holds a one-point edge over Bruce in the team standings.

The league campaign closes one week from today and Central meets Bruce in the final contest.

Pittsburgh Releases Coach Bill Burwell

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 21 (AP) — Reshuffling of the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball club extended to the coaching staff today when General Manager Roy Hamey announced the veteran Bill Burwell had been released as coach.

Burwell, of Daytona Beach, Fla., will be offered another job in the farm system. Burwell, 53, has been in baseball since 1915 as pitcher, coach and minor league manager.

Raadik Whips Priest

BOSTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — Rugged Anton Raadik of Chicago, who is anxious for a shot at Marcel Cerdan's middleweight crown, punched his way to a 10-round decision over Al (Red) Priest, 158½, of Cambridge, tonight before a small 4,139 crowd in Boston Garden.

Raadik, who weighed a pound and a half more than the redhead, came fast in the last few rounds, scoring often with heavy blows to the body and head.

Alabama won 30 straight football games on its home field between Nov. 14, 1913 and Nov. 11, 1921.

Hosken Has Good Idea — Wardens Given Support

George Hott Stands Out — Flanagan's Boys Unbeaten

By C. V. BURNS

G. Kear Hosken, Frostburg jeweler, one of Allegany county's best baseball and boxing fans, believes it would be a nice gesture on the part of the major leagues to invite players voted to Baseball's Hall of Fame to the World Series each year and reserve box seats for them at all games in both cities.

It's his own idea and he feels that writers and fans alike would be pleased to see the heroes of yesteryear assembled for the annual classic.

We like Mr. Hosken's suggestion so much that we're submitting it to Commissioner Albert B. "Happy" Chandler for his consideration.

At the present time the names of 55 players and diamond notables appear in the game's pantheon better known as the National Baseball Museum at Cooperstown, N. Y. Death has claimed about 25 of the honored players, reducing the number to 30 living immortals of the national game.

The first balloting for Baseball's Hall of Fame was conducted by the Baseball Writers' Association of America in 1936 and those named were Ty Cobb, Honus Wagner, Babe Ruth, Christy Mathewson and Walter Johnson. Cobb and Wagner are the only surviving members of that famed quintet. The last players voted places in the Hall of Fame were Herb Pennock and Harold "Pie" Traynor.

Our own Robert Moses "Lefty" Grove who won 300 games during his 17 years with the Philadelphia A's and Boston Red Sox before winding up his diamond career in 1941, was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1947 along with Gordon "Mickey" Cochrane, his old batterymate, Carl Hubbell and Frankie Frisch.

Matchmaker Jim Klosterman has started something new in local boxing circles by issuing season tickets to the press for all show conducted by the Diamond Athletic Club.

Heretofore the ticket were good for only one show.

The number of the reserved seat appears on each of the season tickets.

This should be good news to Richard J. "Dick" Stakem, division chief of the United States Bureau of Internal Revenue, who made the suggestion quite some time ago.

Jim Stemple called the other evening and asked that we settle an argument for him.

A friend, he said, contended that "Bullet Joe" Bush played the outfield for the Philadelphia Athletics.

We always knew that "Bullet Joe" was a pitcher so we looked it up to make sure.

The record book shows that Leslie Ambrose "Bullet Joe" Brush was a pitcher for the A's, Red Sox, Yankees, Browns, Senators, Pirates and Giants from 1912 through 1928 and won 194 games and lost 184 during his major league career. His best year was 1922 when he won 26 games for the Yankees. He participated in five World Series. There is nothing in the book to show that he was an outfielder.

George Hott, former Moorefield High School football and baseball star, played an outstanding role in the victory of the West Virginia Freshmen over Western Reserve Freshmen last Saturday at Morgantown.

The W.V.U. halfback set the stage for the winning score when he returned an Ohio punt from the Cleveland team's 25 to the four in the second period. Two plays later Fullback Benny Saurez went over from the one for the touchdown.

It was the second win of the season for Coach Leonard Barnum's Little Mountaineers who opened the season with a 14-7 triumph over Fairmont State Teachers.

W.V.U.'s freshmen will play the University of Maryland's yearlings in a night game here Thursday, November 18 in a game sponsored by the local council of the Knights of Columbus.

You've got to hand it to those trial magistrates in Garrett county for their co-operation with the game wardens.

According to the August report of fish and game law violations issued by George B. Shields, Maryland's chief game warden, the Garrett magistrates were really in a "book throwing" mood.

They handled 43 cases and only two were found not guilty which is a darned good batting average in the fish and game league.

Magistrates Loraditch and Speelman plastered fines amounting to $546 which represents 62 per cent of the $876 collected in fines by the State Game Department in 13 counties during the month.

Carl Flanagan's Winfield (W. Va.) High School football team extended its winning streak to seven games last week by crushing Hurricane High by the score of 40-0 after the latter had whipped Charleston Catholic 19-7.

Winfield is still in the running for the Class "B" title in West Virginia. The undefeated Putnam county eleven now ranks fourth behind Webster Springs, Alderson and Huntington Vinson. There are eight unbeaten Class "B" teams in the state.

A native of Tucker county and former resident of Ridgeley, Flanagan is interested in moving to the Cumberland area for the next school term.

AERIAL ARTIST—Most sensational performance on the college grid last weekend was turned in by Stan Heath, passslinging ace of the University of Nevada football team. Heath completed 19 of 24 heaves for 298 yards as the undefeated Wolfpack ripped St. Mary's Gaels, 48 to 20, to record the fourth straight win of the year.

Fusari Is Winner Over Tippy Larkin

Stops Latter In 6th In Jersey City Bout

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 21 (AP) —Charley Fusari, blond Irvington, N. J., welter contender, stopped the veteran Tippy Larkin of Garfield, N. J., tonight in 2:35 of the sixth round of a scheduled ten-rounder as the Tournament of Champions opened its indoor season at the Jersey City Armory. Fusari weighed 147, Larkin, 143½.

Larkin, showing little of his old master boxing form, never went down in the all-Jersey finale which ended with the 31-year-old vet collapsing against the ropes. Referee Paul Cavalier stopped the bout to save Larkin further punishment.

The winner, who is supposed to have a "promise" of a title shot at welter king Ray Robinson, hit Larkin at will after the second round. He had flattened Tippy in the ninth round of a previous meeting at Madison Square Garden, February 14, 1947.

GAVILAN SCORES TKO

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (INS)—Kid Gavilan, 148½, of Havana, Cuba, scored a technical knockout in the sixth of a scheduled ten round bout over Vinnie Rossano, of New York, at Uline Arena tonight.

Rossano injured his right hand in the first round when he went to the canvas for a count of nine. He fell with the hand twisted under him. After that, he took a savage beating from the Cuban before giving up at 22 seconds of the sixth.

In a six-round preliminary, Clev Simmons, 130, of Washington, D. C., decisioned Lorenzo Safora, 127, of Havana.

Cubs Cut Adrift Eight Farm Clubs In Economy Move

Prim, Passeau Listed Among 35 Released

By CHARLES EINSTEIN
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Oct. 21—(INS)—The Chicago Cubs today cut adrift eight of their 18 farm clubs and at least 35 persons in the Cub organization in the most drastic economy cutback known to baseball since the war.

Many baseball men viewed the Cubs' action, announced by Jack Sheehan, director of the team's minor league system, as a harbinger of similar moves by other big league organizations.

Reduction of the farm system and staff, said Sheehan, could be traced to "the high cost of operation, the military draft and reluctance of youngsters to sign in the lower minors." He added further cuts may be necessary.

Of significance was that of their six Class-D teams—the lowest classification in organized ball—the Cubs retained only a working agreement with St. Augustine of the Florida State League.

To this, Sheehan said:

"We are on the lookout now for just the best youngsters, boys who can start their baseball careers in a higher classification than the D leagues.

Passeau, Prim Dropped

Of the eight clubs dropped today, six were owned outright by the Wrigley organization. It is possible some of these may not be able to operate next season unless they find some new means of support.

Among the staff personnel let go by the Cubs were the two Chicago pitching heroes of the 1945 world series, Claude Passeau and Ray Prim, who had been acting as instructors in the Cub chain; full-time scouts Jack Ryan, Ed Holly and Jim Keesey; 25 part-time scouts and several business managers.

The eight teams ejected from the Cubs' system were:

Class B—Fayetteville, N. C., (Tri-State League); Selma, Ala., (South-Eastern League).

Class C—Clinton, Ia., (Central Association).

Class D—Marion, O., (Ohio State League); Centralia, Ill., (Illinois State League); Janesville, Wis., (Wisconsin State League); Elizabethton, Tenn., (Appalachian League); Lumberton, N. C., (Tobacco State League).

All were owned outright except Marion and Centralia, with which the Cubs had working agreements.

Ten "Farms" Retained

The ten teams remaining in the Cub farm system are:

Class AAA—Los Angeles (Pacific Coast League).

Class AA—Nashville (Southern Association).

Class A—Des Moines, Ia., (Western League); Mason, Ga., (South Atlantic League).

Class B—Springfield, Mass., (New England League); Decatur, Ill., (Three-Eye League).

Class C—Visalia, Cal., (California League); Springfield, Mo., (Western Association); Sioux Falls, S. D., (Northern League).

Class D—St. Augustine, Fla., (Florida State League).

Six of the clubs, retained in the farm chain are owned outright by the Chicago team. They are Los Angeles, Des Moines, Springfield, Mass., Decatur, Visalia and Springfield, Mo.

Fontaine Is Loser

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 21 (AP)—Al Gualteri of Washington, Pa., mauled his way to a unanimous 10-round decision over Juste Fontaine of Pittsburgh before 1,150 fans tonight in Aragon Gardens.

Gualteri weighed 136, Fontaine 137.

Grapevine Has Paul Brown Quitting Job At Cleveland

Browns' Coach Would Accept College Offer

By FRITZ HOWELL

CLEVELAND, Oct. 21 (AP)—Paul E. Brown, coach and general manager of the Cleveland Browns, will resign as chief of the All-America Football Conference champs and return to the intercollegiate field in 1949.

Paul E. Brown

That's a flat statement, and probably "Precision Paul" would not confirm it, but folk closest to the former Massillon High, Ohio State and Great Lakes mentor know that it is true.

A source as close to Brown as a source can be, declared today:

"If Paul is offered a worthwhile intercollegiate coaching job, he will make a move after this season. And that 'worthwhile' offer need not be in terms of money. He'll take the first job that's worthy of his talents."

The same source disclosed that recent rumors connecting Brown with certain California colleges were just rumors—that Brown had never been approached by any representative of those colleges.

Gets $25,000 Annually

"Paul's reaction to some advances by unauthorized alumni of those schools was that he couldn't discuss the matter unless contacted by someone in authority," the speaker said. "But I have a hunch Paul would be interested, for I know he wants to get back into the intercollegiate field."

Asked why Brown would give up his lucrative job with the Browns—his contract calls for $25,000 annually plus a portion of the "gate"—the spokesman said:

"Paul never reckoned on getting into a football war, and he has no stomach for such things. He's not a muscle man with the idea of running someone out of business.

"Brown is a football coach, probably the best technician in the country. He is proud of his teams, but he doesn't like this eternal conflict between his league and the National.

"Both conferences are feeling the effects of the war. The fight is hurting everyone, not only because of the increased player salaries due to the bidding for talent, but because of the decreased public interest due to the lack of an over-all champion.

Sick Of Football War

"Both sides are getting sick of the war, naturally. The Browns are outdrawing everyone, but aren't doing too well financially. Look at the Chicago Bears. Why George Halas has $60,000 tied up in T-quarterbacks alone. No one can pay that much for talent for one position and come out anywhere near even."

The Browns, in two years under Brown's coaching, have twice won the All-America Conference championship, and this year are undefeated in seven games. His club has lost only three league starts in 35.

Baseball Manager Who Threw Game Gets Prison Term

Sentence Of One Year Given Bernie DeForge

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Oct. 21 (AP) — A 31-year-old baseball manager, who turned states' evidence and pleaded guilty to throwing a Class C baseball game, was sentenced to serve a year in prison today. Two other men, who pleaded innocent to the same charges, were freed by a Superior Court jury.

Bernard DeForge, former pitcher-manager of the Reidsville, N. C., Carolina League club was sentenced by Judge Allen H. Gwyn.

W. C. McWaters and Tommy Phillips, used auto dealers of Clover, S. C., were acquitted by a jury which deliberated 37 minutes.

A fourth defendant, Emmanuel Weingarten, former owner of the Florence, S. C., Tri-State League team, and the Leaksville, N. C., Blue Ridge team, died before the trial.

All were charged with conspiracy and bribery in connection with the fixing of a league game between Reidsville and Winston-Salem at the latter's home park last May 14.

DeForge testified that he, McWaters and Weingarten discussed "throwing" Carolina League games and that he saw to it that his team lost to Winston-Salem by at least three runs. He also told the court McWaters gave him $300 after the game.

Winston-Salem won the game with Reidsville May 14 by a score of 5-0. Winston-Salem was leading 2-0 going into the eighth inning when DeForge went in as pitcher. He walked three men and threw a wild pitch allowing the additional scores.

LaSalle High School has designated tonight as "Victory Night" for its football contest with St. Justin's High School of Pittsburgh at 8 o'clock at the stadium.

The Explorers are hopeful of winning over the Smoky City eleven as a fitting farewell gift to Brother E. Clement, principal, who leaves the North Centre Street School tomorrow to assume the principalship of St. John's College, Washington, D. C., his alma mater.

Welcome New Principal

At the same time the Carolan-Gaffney coached team will welcome its new principal, Brother G. John, who comes to LaSalle from St. John's School, Orange, N. J.

The Men of LaSalle and the Mothers' Club of LaSalle have been asked to attend the game.

Tonight's game will be the sixth start of the season for LaSalle. The Explorers have won one, lost three and tied one.

St. Justin's is reported to be a shade better than St. Mary's of the Mount of Pittsburgh which battled LaSalle to a 12-12 tie but little is known of the visitors' record except that they lost to St. George, one of the topnotch Catholic school elevens in the Pittsburgh district and played St. Vincent's of Latrobe, Sacred Heart and St. Wendelin's, Pittsburgh, and St. Bernard's of Bradford.

The Rev. Thomas McCarthy is athletic director of the Pittsburgh school.

AHS Goes To Clarksburg

Allegany's high-stepping Campers will shove off at 12:30 p. m. today in a special bus headed for Clarksburg, W. Va., where they'll tangle with Roosevelt-Wilson High School's eleven tonight at the Washington Irving High School Stadium at 8 o'clock.

Coaches Bob Pence and Jim Hosack, two student managers and 29 players will make the trip.

It will be a clash of undefeated teams and promises to be a hard-fought game.

Roosevelt-Wilson, coached by Sam Mazzie, is undefeated in six starts and won the city title by defeating Washington-Irving and Victory high schools. Allegany has bagged five consecutive victories.

The Campers will receive plenty of support at the game as a large crowd of followers of the Blue and White plan to make the trip to the West Virginia city.

Night Club Emcee Scores With Long Shot Paying $144

40-Year-Old Francesco Pilots Glenwood Kid

By FRED HAYDEN

JAMAICA, N. Y., Oct. 21 (AP)—A horse paying $144.10 for two, ridden by a jockey in his early forties who also has made a living as a master of ceremonies at night clubs, enlivened an otherwise quiet afternoon here today.

The horse was Glenwood Kid, a three-year-old gelding owned by Harry L. Carr. The animal never had won in 28 starts but he captured today's fourth event, for maiden platers, by four lengths to pay the longest price of the waning New York turf season.

The rider was Anthony Francesco, who only returned to the saddle this season after a nine-year absence from jockey competition. It was Francesco's second winner this year, he having won on Quaker, a $15.60 for two shot, at this track on July 22.

Francesco first won a race back in 1923—and it was his first mount—on Dextrous, a 20 to 1 shot. That victory also was scored at this same track. Until this season he hadn't ridden in a race since 1939 in California, although he had been galloping horses preparing for his return to action.

He is Brooklyn-born but is now a resident of Lindenhurst, N. Y. He is now in his fourth comeback as a jockey. Francesco quit the sport after a spill at Agua Caliente in 1939. In 1947, he broke a leg while preparing for a return to competition on the track. At the beginning of this year, he weighed 127 pounds but can now ride at around 111.

During the nine-year stretch Francesco was away from race-riding he entertained as a song and dance man mostly through the middle west.

The versatile veteran certainly was master of the ceremonies connected with this afternoon's upset race, which drew a dozen mediocre non-winners to cover a mile and a sixteenth. Glenwood Kid, jumping up from $3,500 company to $6,000, amazed virtually all of the 17,126 fans present. He was timed in an ordinary 1:50 4-5.

Glenwood Kid returned $44.90 for place and $16 for show.

Savold And Woodcock May Fight In London

LONDON, Oct. 21—(AP)—Savold, Paterson, N. J., heavyweight, will meet the British champion, Bruce Woodcock, at Harringway Arena Dec. 6 if Promoter Jack Solomons clinches negotiations with Savold's manager.

Solomons said today Tom Hurst, Woodcock's manager, had agreed to his fighter taking on Savold as his next opponent.

Solomons added that he had been in touch with the Savold camp for several weeks and now that he had Woodcock's agreement, he expected to seal the bout within the next few hours.

Yale Coach Is Sought As North Team Mentor

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 21—(AP)—Herman Hickman, head coach of football at Yale, confirmed reports today that he has been approached by sponsors of an All-Star North-South game to be played in Miami, Fla., on Christmas Day as to his availability as coach of the North squad.

The game, to be sponsored by the Mahi Shrine of Miami, will be modelled after the annual East-West game held in San Francisco.

Hickman said that he was expecting further discussions in the immediate future.

NITTANY LIONS GOING STRONG—Penn State, undefeated in 1947, once again is fielding a good ball club. The Nittany Lions, victorious in their first three starts, are built around 19 veterans headed by the star backs, Elwood Petchel, Fran Rogel and Joe Colone. The Lions, coached by Bob Higgins, have beaten Bucknell 35-0, Syracuse 34-14 and West Virginia 27-7 and have yet to play Michigan State, Colgate, Pennsylvania, Temple, Pitt and Washington State.

Stuhldreher Will Not Resign Position

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 21 (INS)—Harry Stuhldreher, embattled football coach at the University of Wisconsin, said today he has "no intention" of resigning either as coach or director of athletics.

Stuhldreher received an assist from student leaders, who asked the Wisconsin student body not to hold an advisory referendum on the question of whether the coach should be ousted.

The "Good Bye Harry" feeling on the Badger campus reached a new height Saturday when some Wisconsin students raised "Good Bye Harry" banners during the Badgers' loss to Yale.

Stuhldreher said today:

"We regard everything that's happened as the work of a minority."

Clemson Defeats South Carolina

Fourth Period Rally Brings 13-7 Victory

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 21—(AP)—Unbeaten Clemson turned a fumble and a blocked punt into a pair of last-period touchdowns to gain a hard-fought 13-7 victory over South Carolina today in their 46th annual State Fair Grounds classic.

The underdog Gamecocks rolled 81 yards to a first period score and nursed their advantage until the closing quarter when the Tigers clawed out a pair of touchdowns for their fourth straight victory. The triumph, achieved before the traditional sellout crowd of 25,000 was the second in the Southern Conference for Clemson, putting the Tigers in a tie for the circuit lead with North Carolina.

Clemson, beaten in the last two meetings of the schools, despite its favored role, seemed doomed again today until the Tigers got a break late in the third period when Bishop Strickland, hard running South Carolina halfback fumbled a punt on his 10. End Oscar Thompson recovered for the Tigers.

Hank Greenberg played only two full seasons in the major leagues in which he failed to drive in more than 100 runs—his first year and his last.

Umpires are paid $2,500 each for officiating in a World Series.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Act. 21—(INS)—Such excitement when handsome Gene Bearden, hero of the Cleveland Indians walked on the MGM lot. All of the big boys out there stopped work to shake hands with the handsome baseball favorite.

Gene Bearden

Gene played in the World Series, in spite of the fact that he has a plate in his head and a hinge in his knee as the result of injuries received in the war.

Yes, he is going to be in "The Stratton Story," playing himself. Jack Cummings had a difficult time trying to test him because all the movie folk, even the celebrities on the lot, were like kids, wanting to share his hand.

Jack is still trying to get Joe Di Maggio, who is back in Johns Hopkins Hospital for that old trouble with his foot.

Ingrid Bergman arrived back home a few days ago, glad to be back in Hollywood but exceedingly tired.

She said her trip was really more work than vacation. But she did have a wonderful time in Stockholm where she and her husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, visited all the old familiar places.

Ingrid says that for the first time in years she has no assignment to make a movie, which means she isn't going to do the one in Italy for Rossellini. That will be a blow to him.

I feel sorry for all of the foreign-born stars who are worried about their relatives in Russian-dominated countries.

Vera Ralston, the Republic star, says that there is an Iron Curtain around her native Czechoslovakia, and all the country's products are being earmarked for export to Russia.

She told me her uncle wrote an urgent appeal to send him some drugs to treat a chronic illness from which he suffers. Ironically enough, her uncle works in a drug store but is unable to get the medicines he needs.

Agnes Moorehead telephoned and ask, "Did you call me?"

I said, "No, but I am always happy to talk to you." I certainly was because I learned Aggie is going to play Jimmy Stewart's mother in "The Stratton Story." She will be good, too.

Funny about these telephone calls. Within a week at least ten people called in, in answer to messages that presumably came from me, but didn't. Wonder who the joker is? It isn't funny when some of the phony calls are made at 2 o'clock in the morning.

Liz Scott, whose low-register voice is her stock in trade, had a serious accident at Republic a few days ago. She broke a blood vessel in her throat when she had to scream at Dan Duryea in a high-pitched voice.

She has been told by her doctor to do no more screaming, and to take it easy. So, there is no more yelling for her in "Too Late For Tears," the movie which she is now making.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Barbara Bushman, granddaughter of Francis X., and Jean Louis, dress designer, are a new romantic item.

Cornel Wilde and Patricia Knight who are having such a good time in Switzerland, won't be back until Christmas. They are staying four weeks longer than they had planned.

Montgomery Clift is on his way to New York to talk about a play. Hope he comes back to make another movie. Just before he left he had luncheon with Norman Mailer, author of "Naked and The Dead," at the Brown Derby.

Jane Wyman's big triumph was almost too much for her. She has been sick in bed ever since the opening of "Johnny Belinda."

Oh, dear, this I would like if I could get away. Ginger Rogers and Jackie Briggs have invited me to their ranch in Oregon the weekend of November 6 for a fishing jaunt. Anne Baxter, John Hodiak, Dick Powell and June Allyson are among those who will try their luck with the trout.

Jerry Wald and his pretty wife Constance, are off for a tour of Europe. While in London they will investigate the possibilities of filming the famous story, "Peter and the Dyke," which Jerry has always wanted to do. They will also take in the command performance in London.

The Gina Janns opening at Mocambo brought out many socialites as well as movie names. Joseph Schenck danced with pretty Lis Kincaid. Ann Sothern was with the wealthy San Franciscan, Vosco Bonini.

Bing and Dixie Crosby entertained Mrs. Harrison Goodwin and Mrs. James Bunn, out-of-town friends, at the Kings.

That's all today.

There are 429,661 producing oil wells in the United States. The average production of oil per well is about 12 barrels daily, and it may yield 50,000 barrels in its lifetime, the Petroleum Data book states.

Oceans in the vicinity of the Arctic and Antarctic polar ice caps are less salty beause melting ice from these caps dilutes the water.

Cement Shortage Seen In City

Although the cement industry is having its greatest production year, it has become one of the most recent items placed on the hard-to-get list. Plentiful for many years, it now is available only about eight weeks after an order is placed, according to Cumberland cement companies.

Most local firms agree that house and industrial construction in the East has increased so rapidly that the demand for cement is greater than the supply.

A spokesman for one local company said that in 30 years this was the first time he could remember a shortage in cement. He added that industrial construction is up 20 per cent in this area.

The firms say that the commodity will probably be plentiful again in 30 or 45 days when cold weather arrives and road building, which consumes a terrific amount of cement, and construction work end for the winter months.

All suppliers contacted said they had recently been forced to furlough men for short periods until they received enough cement to provide work for the employes.

Several companies advanced the idea that a lack of railroad cars also has slowed the normal flow of cement to the markets.

Cement, it seems, has been placed with steel and certain types of lumber on the list of items in short supply.

Deer Park Youth Takes One-Year's Enlisiment

Lt. George J. Gocke of the local Army and Air Force recruiting office has announced the recent one-year enlistment of Robert Skipper, 18, Deer Park.

Other enlistments include Robert L. Ritchie, 18, Pairgo, and Charles W. Leslie, 18, Route 5, this city, who each enlisted for three years in the Regular Army unassigned All three men were sent to Camp Pickett, Va., for basic training.

Sale Of Property Asked By Company

James G. Neilson, Thomas J. Neilson and William Ludwig Neilson, trading as the Neilson Brothers Paint and Supply Company, has filed a bill of complaint against James A. Crowe and his wife Helen E. Crowe.

The bill states that the plaintiffs furnished the defendants materials valued at $701.32 for the construction of a building at Allegany. The Neilson company later filed a mechanics' lien on the property.

GOOD NEWS FOR SICK PEOPLE
STOMACH AILMENTS, WEAK KIDNEYS, RHEUMATIC PAINS, ARTHRITIS, NEURITIS and such complaints as Headaches, Nervousness, Acids Toxins, Bloating, Lack of Vitality, Energy, Poor Appetite, Underweight, Dizzy Spells.

Drugless Health!
REGARDLESS of how long you have been a sufferer, and how many medicines you have tried before, you can now hope for relief if you try GEO-MINERAL, the wonderful mineral aid. Feel and enjoy the results one week after you start taking it. GEO-MINERAL comes from the earth — Nature's laboratory. Contains NO alcohol, NO preservatives, NO oil. NO harmful drugs. NO dope — is NOT habit forming. Contains ONLY Nature's minerals, the oldest, most reliable remedy for rheumatism, arthritis, kidney and stomach ailments — highly recommended by the medical profession.
FOR THOUSANDS of years ever since Hipocrates was the father of medicine, minerals and other natural medicines were a reliable remedy for most of our common ailments. GEO-MINERAL will enrich your blood, help to make you strong, full of pep, life and energy. If you suffer from nutritional anemia, nervousness, lack of vitality and energy see what GEO-MINERAL will do for you.

Amazing Results
MEDICAL records show 65% of men and women over 35 suffer from nutritional mineral-iron anemia. When you feel nervous, dull, tired, lazy, have dizzy spells, no ambition to work or play, a poor appetite, when your eyes lack that bright spark, and your mind brilliance, when headaches get the best of you, and you feel old before your time, and life seems not worth living, with worry wearing you down—it may be simply lack of minerals in your blood. GEO-MINERAL is then what you need.
RHEUMATISM, arthritis are dreadful diseases. Acid coddition in the blood is often their cause. What could be the remedy? For thousands of years, minerals have been used to relieve the pain and suffering of these ills. People, on the advice of their doctors, go to mineral springs to find cure, or relief. The late President Roosevelt used to go to Warm Springs in Georgie. He was helped or would not have gone there twice a year.

Wonder Minerals
YEAR after year, people rush to mineral springs and spas, to drink and bathe in their miraculous water. We have all heard of the wondrous springs of Lourdes, France, and famous Thronion in ancient Greece where, according to legend, Hercules, the god of eternal strength and youth, drank its waters and bathed to be forever young.
GEO-MINERAL contains minerals you get at the world's best springs. Watch your elimination from your bowels a day or two after using it. The waste, black as the color of your shoes, will start to break away, and you will SEE it! Also examine your urine. You may see impurities — poisonous waste — coming out of your kidneys, relieving you. And then realize the priceless value of GEO-MINERAL.

Read What They Say!

"We wish to state that after selling Geo-Mineral for eight months, this product has broken all sales records in the medicine line in our drug store"—reports Jack Wright, owner of Economy Drug Co., Anderson, S. C. "Users report almost miraculous results helping sufferers with rheumatism, arthritis, weak kidneys, and various stomach ailments. We believe that there exist very few items on the druggists' shelf with the merit of this natural mineral medicine. Of thousands of bottles sold on guarantee basis, there have been very few refunds."

100% Guaranteed!
WE URGE everyone to try GEO-MINERAL. Do not hesitate one moment. Go to your drug store now. Get one bottle. Use it one week. If you are not 100 per cent satisfied, we will refund your money.
REGARDLESS of how long you have been suffering, and how many medicines you have tried before, GEO-MINERAL may be the remedy you need!
TRY it today! It may do wonders for you—and be the best investment for your health. Make you feel, eat, sleep, work and enjoy life better.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The Fever Graph

Whenever I want to take a fever chart of the country at large, I turn to Walter Winchell's Hooper rating. It's an almost infallible index of how nervous we all are. When the country is worried, Winchell's Hooper soars; when it relaxes, it drops. Winchell first hit the top of the Hooper parade, tied with Charlie McCarthy, just after Pearl Harbor, a period naturally of great unrest. He never hit it again, at least during the regular broadcast season, until March 21 this year.

Walter Winchell

Well, he still leads all radio programs in popularity, if you trust Mr. Hooper's figures and I don't entirely, and has been in that position since June 15, a period of four months. It's been a long time since any one occupied the top Hooper rating for such a sustained period and probably the first time in history that a news commentator has ever done such a thing. In other words, the patient is worried silly and has been for a long time.

• — • — •

Mr. Hooper has just come out with something called the Winchell story which tells a lot of surprising things about the commentator in form of statistics. I hope every one likes statistics. One thing that will surprise many people is that an usually large percentage of Winchell's audience lies in the high-income groups and among what is termed rather loftily the "professional managerial" class.

For example, 32.8 per cent of Winchell's total audience lies in the high ($4,000 and over) group. This is an excellent showing when you consider that among all radio set owners, the high-income crowd forms only 26 per cent. Winchell draws the fewest listeners in the low-income group (19.4 per cent) and his greatest number among the middle - income group (47.8 per cent).

He appeals most to that professional managerial bunch and to skilled workers (37.6) and least to farmers (7.8 and unskilled workers (21.1). This, as Mr. Hooper points out, is great news to Kaiser-Fraser, who will sponsor him next year, and Jergens, which sponsors him now, since farmers and unskilled workers aren't especially good customers for either cosmetics or cars.

• — • — •

Winhcell's greatest audience lies in the East 57.4) The next best slice is in the central states (28.5) but this is not comparatively a good showing since the central states contain 36.4 of the nation's radio sets. Comparatively Winchell also does badly in the mountain states and very well on the Pacific coast. Well, if you're prepared to accept my dubious and highly unscientific theory, that means the people in the middle of the country sleep better than the people on either coast. My researcher fell down a well last week so I'm unable to conduct a survey on the matter; still, it'd be interesting to have a chart on the percentage of nervous ailments in the central states as opposed to those on the coasts and compare it to the Winchell figures. I bet they'd match pretty closely.

• — • — •

"I never listen to Winchell but I just happened to hear him last night." That's a remark I've heard so often that it deserves some analysis. There's a definite feeling of guilt connected with listening to Walter Winchell. A lot of people—and I'm sure you must know some too—will give you the impression that the radio just happened to be on and they couldn't avoid Mr. W. Well, Hooper makes liars of a lot of these people. Last January and February 45 per cent of Winchell's audience, almost half, came to him after listening to Fred Allen on N.B.C. and 25 per cent had previously listened to "A Man Called X" on C.B.S. and only 4 per cent had their radios tuned to A.B.C., which is where Winchell is. In other words, 96 per cent of Winchell's audience did a little dial-twisting to get him; he wasn't thrust on them. (These figures must have been altered greatly since "Stop the Music" hit its stride.)

The only other figure I have of interest—and this one doesn't surprise me a bit—is that a lot of Winchell's audience also listens to those two other noted spellbinders—Gabriel Heatter and H. V. Kaltenborn.

Well, I just happened to listen to Winchell myself last Sunday and, while I'm in general sympathy with Mr. W.'s anti-Soviet feelings, I don't think that the policy of scaring people out of their wits contributes much to clear thinking on the subject and I do think it brings just a little closer a war which Winchell himself would very much like to avoid.

In Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of my dear husband, Orville B. Garlitz, who passed away one year ago today, October 22, 1947.
There's an open gate at the end of the road
Through which each must go alone,
And there is a light we cannot see
Our Father claims His own.
Beyond the gate my loved one
Finds happiness and rest,
And there is comfort in the thought
That a loving God knows best.
Sadly missed by his wife,
Mildred Garlitz.
Westernport, Md.

In loving memory of our beloved wife and Mother, Mrs. Ida M. Tysinger, who passed away 4 years ago, October 21, 1944.

There is not a day that passes, Mom,
That we do not think of you,
Your face is in our memories still,
Your voice and footsteps too.

There is many a lonely heartache,
There are many lonely tears,
Only God knows how we miss our Mom
At the end of these four years.

Sadly missed by her husband and children,
Wilbur I. Tysinger & Family.

Market Rests After Getting Within Shooting Distance Of Mid-July High

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — A climbing stock market took a rest today after getting within shooting distance of the highest average since mid-July.

Trading activity stayed at the comparatively high rate which started a couple of weeks ago and turnover passed the 1,000,000-share mark for the fourth day running. Sales of 1,200,000 shares were the largest since the end of September and compared with 1,180,000 Wednesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks remained at 69.8. The industrial component declined while the rail and utility sections advanced.

Of the 1,051 stocks which appeared on the ticker tape, 470 advanced and 331 fell back.

Closing at the year's tops were National Steel at 106, Dow Chemical 49½, and Peoples Gas 99.

Also ahead were Republic Steel 32¼, Youngstown Sheet 86½, General Motors 63⅜, N. Y. Central 16⅝, Great Northern preferred 44½, Central of N. J. 35, Atlantic Coast Line 56½, Mission Corp. 63⅛, Skelly Oil 126⅝, Eastern Air Lines 16⅛, American Air Lines 7½, Douglas Aircraft 60⅞, J. I. Case 41½, American Telephone 152, and Commonwealth Edison 26¼.

Pullman slipped to a new low for the year at one time and closed with a loss of 1⅝ at 40. American Woolen lost 2⅜ at 45⅝. The textile company's stock was affected by what was considered an unfavorable earnings report.

Superior Oil of California dropped 5 points at one time but ended with a 2-point dip at 190. Pepsi-Cola equalled the 1948 low at 9⅛.

Others trimmed included U. S. Rubber, United Aircraft, Schenley, Western Union, American Smelting, American Can, Westinghouse Electric, and Standard Oil (NJ).

Cities Service jumped 2⅜ points in the curb. Smaller gains were posted for O'Okiep Copper, American Gas, Solar Aircraft, Humble Mill, and Emsco Derrick. Trimmed were Hecla Mining, Pittsburgh Metallurgical, Pantepec Oil and Babcock & Wilcox. Pancoastal Oil was unchanged after substantial trading. Turnover of 320,000 shares was even with yesterday.

Other than a few special situations wherein gains and losses of a point or so were recorded, bond market changes both ways were in fractions today.

Sales in all bonds totaled $3,664,000 compared with $3,323,000 on Wednesday.

U. S. Governments were off 2/32 of a point to up 3/32.

stands of miles by train, plane and car indicate that something approaching a tie, and a political jumble in Congress, is entirely possible.

Neely Choice In West Va.

The President so far has put in his heaviest jabs in Oklahoma, West Virginia, Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, New Jersey, Colorado and Kentucky. And he has given some attention to the Senate races in Michigan, New Mexico and Delaware.

Here are some Democratic predictions, naturally with an element of wishful thinking mixed in:

Former Gov. Robert S. Kerr is a sure shot in Oklahoma against the Republican senatorial nominee, Rep. Ross Rizley.

Mayor Hubert Humphrey, of Minneapolis, is just as much a cinch to unseat Republican Sen. Joseph H. Ball in Minnesota.

In West Virginia, former Governor, Senator, and Representative Matthew M. Neely is an odds-on choice against Republican Sen. Chapman Revercomb.

Wyoming is closer, but Gov. Lester Hunt has the edge over Republican Sen. E. V. Robertson in the race for Robertson's seat.

In Montana, once regarded as a tossup, the Democrats now say Sen. James E. Murray is picking up strength and has a pretty fair chance to throw back the challenge of Republican nominee Tom J. Davis.

Kentucky Outlook Dark

New Mexico, Colorado and Tennessee are regarded as sure to stay Democratic in the Senate races this year.

Kentucky, home state of the Democratic vice presidential nominee, Sen. Alben W. Barkley, may or not keep Republican Sen. John Sherman Cooper. Mr. Truman got in some licks for Rep. Virgil Chapman to unseat Cooper, but at the moment the outlook is called dark.

The Illinois picture is described as not bright, with Democrat Paul Douglas trying for the Senate post of Republican C. Wayland Brooks. The President has stumped Illinois three times and goes back to Chicago for a major speech on October 25.

In Iowa, former Senator and Representative Guy M. Gillette has a chance against Republican Sen. George A. Wilson.

In New Jersey, Michigan and Delaware, the Democratic senatorial candidates are long-shots at best.

Dewey--Republican

committee, to have the criticized provisions changed. Revercomb, denying they were discriminatory, said "no."

Revercomb Gets Some Help

Now Dewey's friends have passed the word privately to newsmen that he isn't going into West Virginia to help Revercomb. However, William S. Ryan, Republican chairman of Roane County, W. Va., announced today he had a letter from Dewey campaign headquarters saying it is "doing everything possible" to help reelect Revercomb.

Since he started his campaign September 20, Dewey has been concentrating on a number of other states where the Senate races are close. In some cases he has plugged hard for men he is understood to be lukewarm about having in the Senate.

But the stakes are big. With the Democrats in control of one branch of Congress, Dewey would have an uphill battle on his hands from the start.

"It would be pitiful," said Sen. Edward J. Thye (R-Minn) when Dewey was in Minnesota last week urging re-election of Thye's GOP colleague, Sen. Joheps H. Ball.

Dewey advisors say they are not too confident that Ball can retain his seat in the face of a challenge by Democratic Mayor Hubert Humphrey, of Minneapolis.

Ball May Not Make Grade

Ball bolted Dewey's ticket in 1944, but the New Yorker went to his aid anyway this year. The assistance may not be enough, Dewey aides say, to overcome opposition to Ball for his stand in favor of the Taft-Hartley law.

Dewey partisans also say privately that in Oklahoma the Democratic candidate, former Gov. Robert S. Kerr, has a very good chance. He and Rep. Ross Rizley are after the place being vacated by Sen. Ed More, Republican.

On the credit side, the Republicans feel they have an excellent chance to unseat Sen. James E. Murray of Montana, veteran New Dealer.

And they say the odds are slightly in their favor in Wyoming and New Mexico.

In Wyoming, Sen. Edward V. Robertson, Republican, is having Taft-Hartley trouble in his race against popular Democratic Gov. Lester C. Hunt. But the Dewey people see an edge for Robertson.

In New Mexico, both sides figure it a close contest between the GOP's Patrick J. Hurley, former Secretary of War, and the Democrat's Clinton P. Anderson, former Secretary of Agriculture.

But the New Mexico race is one of the Dewey political strategists put on their side of the ledger in their give-and-take calculations.

Cooper's Re-election Seen

They also have concluded that Sen. John Sherman Cooper, Republican, will be re-elected in Kentucky, even though they expect the state's electoral vote to go to President Truman. Rep Virgil Chapman is Cooper's Democratic opponent.

Despite the big crowds Republican Candidate Carroll Reece has been drawing in Tennessee, most people in the Dewey party shy away from predicting he will upset Rep. Estes Kefauver in that normally Democratic stronghold.

Nor is anyone close to the presidential nominee counting too heavily on a Republican victory in Colorado, where Sen. Edwin C. Johnson, Democrat, is opposed by Will F. Nicholson.

But they are putting much store by another factor in anticipation of a close division in the Senate. That is the fact that Sen. Robert F. Wagner, New York Democrat, still is seriously ill and is not expected to be on hand when the Senate is organized in January.

Keyser Moose Fined $3,500

Judge See Raps Club Officers For Slot Machines

Charges Result From Two Raids

KEYSER, W. Va. — The Loyal Order of Moose, No. 622, Keyser, was given until 10:30 a. m. today to pay fines totaling $3,500 which Judge Ernest M. See levied against two stewards charged with maintaining 10 slot machines seized in the club rooms.

The two stewards, Thomas W. E. Burns and Harold Thorpe, were also given suspended jail terms aggregating 20 months and paroled three years by Judge See who scathingly criticized club officials for letting Thorpe, "a crippled taxi driver," stand the blunt of one of two raids.

Indictments returned against Page Entler and Howard Siever will be dismissed, Judge See declared, since Thorpe, the crippled driver "brought in from the street took the blame."

Machines Ordered Destroyed

The machines seized in two raids on July 21 and July 31 were ordered destroyed by Judge See with half of the proceeds to be divided between the two confiscating officers, Sheriff James A. Dixon and State Trooper W. F. Bowley. The remaining half will be turned over to the Mineral County Court.

After Judge See imposed sentence and fines on Thorpe and Burns, an official of the club requested that payment of the fines be delayed until 10:30 o'clock this morning "because the treasurer is out of town." Judge See complied.

Burns pleaded guilty to charges of maintaining the six machines confiscated in the first raid and was fined $250 for each machine and given a suspended sentence of 60 days on each count.

Thorpe pleaded guilty to four charges imposed as a result of the second raid and was fined $500 on each count and given a suspended sentence of two months in jail on each of the counts.

An official said the fines, court costs and loss of the 10 machines will cost the Moose Club approximately $6,000.

Judge See criticized Moose officials for attempting to place responsibility of the machines confiscated in the second raid on Thorpe whom they took before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle at the preliminary hearing and asked that the charge against Entler, Burns and Siever be dropped and be placed against Thorpe.

All Four Indicted

The warrant on the second raid charged Entler, Burns and Siever with maintaining the gambling devices but as a result of the action taken by the Moose in regard to Thorpe all four were held by Justice Bazzle and were indicted by the grand jury.

Judge See also scathed Moose officials and those charged with being stewards at the time of the second raid for mistreatment and threats to the raiding officers. When Judge See questioned Sheriff Dixon about the treatment he and Bowley received the night of the second raid Sheriff Dixon stated that they were refused admittance into the club. He said they had to break down the door to get in. Once inside, he sad they were treated "like dogs" and were called names by several of them.

Dixon said Page Entler declared he would take care of him if he ran for office again. Sheriff Dixon said he and Bowley were also backed up and surrounded several times that night by a group of those in the club.

Commends Dixon, Bowley

Sheriff Dixon and Trooper Bowley were commended very highly by Judge See for their work and said that he knew when either of them told him anything that it was the truth and he didn't have to check on it.

Judge See said he knew the operation of the machines in the club was in violation of the constitution and by-laws of the Moose Club and that they should have learned their lesson last year when they were on

Choral Society Will Give Four Concerts During Winter Season

Famed Piano Duo Will Appear Here

The Cumberland Choral Society will present Virginia Morley and Livingston Gearhart, famed American piano duo, here on April 27 in addition to three more concerts to be given during the winter season by society members.

The piano concert by the outstanding duo will be presented for members, patrons and associate members exclusively, Mrs. Robert Troxell, publicity chairman, announced last night.

The concert season will open here the third week in December when the society presents the "Messiah." Three of the guest soloists for the Christmas concert were anounced yesterday by Mrs. Troxell.

Miss Barbara Troxell, New York, who has appeared in every performance of the Messiah presented by the local society will sing the soprano role.

She studied music at Pennsylvania State College and Curtis Institute of Music.

L. Allen Wittel, a senior at the Peabody Conservatory of Music, Baltimore, will sing the tenor role here shortly before he makes an appearance as soloist with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

Miss Joyce Bestwick, this city, a graduate of Oberlin Conservatory of Music and presently associated with the Department of Music at Allegany High School, will be the contralto soloist. A bass soloist has not been selected.

In addition to the holiday concert and the appearance of the Morley-Gearhart duo, the society will present Brahms' Requiem during the Lenten season and a secular concert in May.

A new enrollment of patrons and associate members will be accepted shortly prior to the opening of the winter season in December. Subscriptions will entitle the patrons and associate members to tickets for the piano concert.

The piano team, who are Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Gearhart in private life, first received recognition in Paris where they presented several recitals.

Since their return to America they have completed four transcontinental tours, and have been placed by many critics among the top-ranking artists in their field.

The duo has appeared on the Fred Waring Show for over four years and recently became Columbia Recording artists when an album of popular music by them was released

New Decorations Will Usher In Holiday Season

Garlands Added To Christmas Display

Giant silver garlands which will reflect the multi-colored glow from the new illuminated Christmas decorations and the lights of Baltimore Street stores will add additional color to the new Christmas decorations in this city.

The garlands, composed of thin metal foil, will be strung across the street to replace the traditional laurel leaves which have been used here for a number of years.

When the garlands are strung together, they will give the effect of a huge rope of tinsel and will take on an additional beauty when they reflect the brilliant colors of the neon signs from Baltimore Street signs.

The decorations, which will be of a permanent nature, have already been ordered by the Mercantile Bureau of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Harold W. Smith, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said the Christmas Decorations committee expects the decorations to be delivered by November 10.

The decorations, he added, will be installed by the Potomac Edison Company and will be ready by the Saturday after Thanksgiving.

The lighting of the decorations will officially usher in the beginning of the Christmas season here.

The new decorations, to be placed on Baltimore Street between the railroad crossings, are manufactured of tinted plastic materials and are equipped with lights.

Among the outstanding figures will be Santa Claus and Star of Bethlehem wreaths and multi-colored Christmas balls.

Plans for the street decorations are being made by a committee headed by Harry B. Williams, of the Mercantile Bureau.

Charges Clarified

John E. Savage, Midland, who was arrested and fined $106.50 in Mt. Savage Trial Magistrates Court October 11, was charged with speeding and operating a motor vehicle with improper license plates. It was incorrectly reported earlier that he was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty to the speeding and unauthorized license charges. The News regrets the error.

The Weather

The thermometer pretended it was going to break more records for cold yesterday, but it stopped with a minimum of 27 degrees which was cold enough for most people. It looked like it might do it again when the temperature was 39 late last night, the same as it had been the night before. The maximum temperature of 53 wasn't high enough to warrant calling this part of October Indian Summer. The prediction for today is milder temperatures but cloudy and possible rain toward evening.

Oyster Supper Planned For Republican Club

Members of the Young Men's Republican Club, Frederick Street, will be guests at an oyster supper given by Rep. J. Glenn Beall at 8 p. m. Monday in the club rooms.

Ralph P. Wilkinson, James Flora and Frank Deetz are on the committee for the supper.

McKeldin Addresses Women's Civic Club On "Four Great Americans"

"Faith is not sought, it is caught. We catch it from the spirits which have lived among us," Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, former mayor of Baltimore, told the Women's Civic Club yesterday afternoon at Emmanuel Episcopal Parish House.

McKeldin, speaking on the subject, "Four Great Americans," told of events in the lives, characteristics, ideals and ambitions of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Theodore Roosevelt and Abraham Lincoln.

During his oration, he quoted freely from Longfellow and several other American poets. McKeldin declared that these men, in their writing, caught the spirit which has made America great and the spirit which has produced so many great Americans.

"This land should be the land where men of all nations might repair in time of oppression," the speaker quoted as he outlined in brief the code which made up the life of the nation's first president.

Workers' Government

"Joe Stalin," he declared, "has advocated a 'workers' government. But Stalin is behind the times. We've always had a 'workers'' government in America." Then he enumerated many of the country's great men and told of their early backgrounds. "We even had a president who couldn't read and write until he was 21," McKeldin stated. "One president drove mules along a canal; another was a rail-splitter," he exclaimed. Others were farmers, laborers, working men.

"The greatest tragedy in a man's life is the death of his mother," McKeldin told his audience. Then he related how Lincoln's mother had counseled him, "Be something Abe." And many years after her death, it was Lincoln who said, "All I am or ever hope to be I owe to my angel mother."

Theodore Roosevelt, after whom the speaker was named, was termed a great patriot known for his rough and ready characteristics. The man lived by a rigid code of action, McKeldin said, and it was Roosevelt who stated, "You can't shoot straight if you don't live straight."

Thomas Jefferson, the man who

Meeting Will Be Held On Parking Problem Here

Chamber Still Seeks George Street Site

Another attempt to alleviate Cumberland's parking problem through the development of a North George Street parking area will be made at a conference with city officials and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Miles G. Thompson, chairman of the Highway and Transportation committee, told directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce last night.

Harold W. Smith, manager, said the Chamber feels that the North George Street site is the most desirable location so far found which would offer any comprehensive solution.

A number of other locations have been under consideration but none of them, the group believes, offers as many possibilities as that site.

The committee also reported it is seeking to learn the views of other local organizations concerning the parking lot and general parking problem in this city.

The directors accepted a recommendation of the Finance committee to provide an increase in the budget needed to meet the broadened program of the Chamber.

The Chamber will contact representative groups in unincorporated areas near Cumberland for views on the solution of the problem of marking streets in the communities.

Serious study should be given, the group said, to the problem of providing sewer service at the north end of Bedford Street.

Directors announced they were anxious to work with city officials in plans for improving the cleanliness of downtown streets.

A plan for a series of radio broadcasts devoted to the description of and development of Cumberland's industries, churches, fraternal and commercial organizations was approved.

Directors of the Chamber made no recommendation to its members on proposed amendments to the Maryland constitution which would provide voting machines in Allegany County.

Harold W. Smith, manager, said the board decided to leave up to individual voters the decision on the voting machine issue.

Permit Issued For $10,000 Residence

Clyde S. Slider, local contractor, secured a permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to build a house and attached garage on Lots 1 and 2, Block 6, Louisiana Avenue, at an estimated cost of $10,000.

The structure, to be one and one-half stories high, will measure 54 by 28 feet. The garage will measure 20 by 22 feet and will be connected by a breezeway on the Prince George Street side. The foundation will be of concrete block, with stone veneer walls and an asphalt shingle roof.

A permit was granted to Charles P. Eversole to build an addition to the front of a residence at 925 Grand Avenue, with a garage in the basement. The one-story addition will measure 24 by 24 feet, with a concrete block foundation, frame walls covered with Inselbrick and a composition shingle roof. Work will be done by Marshall Burch and cost is estimated at $2,800.

Raymond G. Messmer obtained a permit to build a two-room addition to a residence at 1036 Myrtle Street and change it into two apartments. The two-story addition, 6 by 8 feet, will have a concrete block foundation and walls and roof of asbestos shingles. Work will be done by Paul Buchanan and cost is estimated at $900.

Two men who were granted appeals for occupancy permits by the Board of Zoning Appeals Wednesday night received building permits for the properties in question.

S. Russell Nave, 224 Glenn Street, will erect a $900 four-car garage of concrete block at the rear of 224-226 Glenn Street; and John J. Herboldsheimer, 511 Franklin Street, will build a $700 garage of concrete block on part of Lot 4, Block K, rear of Dilley Street in back of 602 Sylvan Avenue.

Unusual Slab Of Wood Displayed In Largent

An oddity of nature is attracting considerable interest at the farm and saw mill of E. W. Henderson, Largent, W. Va.

A slab of wood cut from a black oak tree contains two branches which have grown together and formed an arc. Each of the branches, which are joined at the top of the arc, have leaves.

Henderson noticed the unusual branch formation while cutting wood at his saw mill. The slab is on display at the garage at his home, according to Scott Hinds, 27 Maple Street, a former Largent resident.

DISC JOCKEY-- Cpl. Donald H. Cosgrove, son of Herman J. Cosgrove, 607 Sylvan Avenue, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant with the Army of Occupation in Okinawa. Assigned to Armed Forces Radio Station WXLH as a writer-announcer, Sgt. Cosgrove is known to most members of the occupation in the Ryukyus as conductor of the popular daily musical program "Requestfully Yours," consisting of recordings played at the request of listeners for their friends in the occupation. Sgt. Cosgrove joined the Army soon after graduating from LaSalle High School in 1946. He has been on duty overseas for 22 months.

Old Age Grants In County Total $22,958 In Sept.

742 Cases Aided By Welfare Board

The Department of Public Welfare spent $22,958.55 in handling 742 cases of old age assistance in September, according to a statistical report released by J. Milton Patterson, director.

The sum represents $30.94 paid in individual grants, and the report shows that 23 new applications for old age assistance were received. In Garrett County 288 cases were handled at a cost of $8,693.44.

Aid was given to 660 county children in September which the report said represented 240 families. A breakdown of the $17,191.35 total paid for dependent children shows that it averaged $26.05 per child or $71.63 for each family.

In addition to the children receiving public aid 64 from the county were placed in foster homes at a total cost of $2,433.11 or an average of $38.02. In Garrett County 22 children who have been placed in foster homes received an average of $32.25 per child or a total of $713.45.

There were 196 general public assistance cases handled in September and applications from 20 more with total aid in the county amounting to $6,323. It averaged $37.79 for each case.

Public assistance to the needy blind totaled $562 for the 21 cases handled, according to the report which showed that two applications were also received. The payments averaged $26.76.

In Garrett County 314 children received aid which totaled $7,508.55 or an average of $23.91 per child. It involved 107 families.

The drive, which will continue through next Thursday, has an overall goal of $84,009.24. Swearingen reported that a number of calls for campaign supplies and information were received yesterday at the headquarjers office in City Hall.

Survey Will Determine Recreational Possibilities Of Old Canal Property

A number of bills introduced by Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R-Allegany) during the 80th session of Congress are of particular interest to Cumberland.

Beall was instrumental in securin gfunds for the completion of the Savage River Dam project and for starting work on the first phase of the Cumberland flood control project.

In addition, through his efforts an appropriation of $40,000 has been allocated for a survey of the old Chesapeake and Ohio canal property between Great Falls, Montgomery County, and Cumberland.

The joint reconnaissance survey is to be made by the Public Roads Administration and the National Park Service. Their representatives will report to Congress upon the advisability and practicability of constructing a parkway along the canal property.

Beall explained yesterday that the term "parkway" actually means a recreational area. Possibilities of developing the property for such purposes are almost unlimited, he pointed out.

At the Cumberlan dend of the canal, the property includes eight acres near Canal Street which could be developed into a park or ball field, while bridle paths and boating facilities could be provided at other points along the 184-mile length of the property.

Beall said it has been suggested that a large fish hatchery could be developed in the section of the canal property lying between Georgetown and Brunswick.

Average width of the property is 266 feet, he said.

Funds for the survey will be allocated from the appropriation of the National Park Service.

Beall pointed out that the $40,000 appropriation for the survey is the first definite action taken with regard to utilizing the potentially valuable canal property, which is owned by the Department of the Interior.

Voting Machines! Will Save Taxpayers $7,440 Each Election

Editor's Note—This is the second in a series of articles giving information on voting machines in Allegany County. When voters go to the polls November 2, they will have an opportunity to vote for or against the purchase of the devices.

Voting machines, if put into use in Allegany County, will eventually pay for themselves and will save the taxpayers of the county money in five ways, according to a survey by election officials.

It is estimated that a total of $7,420 can be saved in salaries, printing, overtime and other costs each election year, if the Board of County Commisioners buy the machines.

The survey, made two years ago shows that by using machines, the number of precincts in the county can be reduced from 75 to 57, or 18 eliminated. This will save an estimated $4,230, perhaps a little more, each election year.

Voting machines, under Maryland election laws, make it posible to operate polling precincts with only two clerks and two judges instead of four clerks and two judges under the present system. By eliminating two clerks in the remaining 57 precincts, another $1,140 is made.

Officials estimate that a reduction in overtime will amount to a savings of $1,550 each election year.

Saving on printed ballots is estimated conservatively at $500 per election year.

It is explained by those who have studied the situation that 118 machines will be sufficient to provide an average of two in each polling place and four replacements. It is pointed out that some precincts will need only one machine, while others may need three.

The last quotation received on these machines was $1,053 each or a total of $124,254.

Officials explain that the savings made possible by the machines will total at least $74,420 in 10 election years. In the event of a recount, such as happened here after the Primary in 1938, the savings would be much more. That recount cost more than $3,000. At the same time a recount was made in Baltimore, was complete in 24 hours and the expense was negligible.

Two years ago, when much publicity was given the voting machine question here, a survey at that time showed only $3,013.20 would be saved in salaries of election workers, and a total of savings would amount to $6,003.60, instead of the present estimate of $7,440.

The increase is due to the increase in pay of election clerks and judges. These poll workers now receive $10 per day for each day served. Including registration days, revision day, return days, primary election day and general election day, a total of nine days is worked in an average election year. This means $90 per judge or clerk employed for the full nine days.

Two judges are employed in each precinct for two registration days, one revision day, one Primary day, one return day, General Election Day, and the final return day. Four clerks are employed on General Election Day.

The machines would reduce the number of clerks in each precinct from four to two, but would make no change in the number of judges.

A savings would be made in the rental of polling places, and a conservative estimate of $35 per precinct has been used in these calculations.

A company which manufactures this machine offers a choice of two deferred payment plans, one over a five-year period, the other over a ten-year period.

The five year plan, including interest, would cost the county $129,223.19. Annual payments under this

Chamber Hits School Board Election Plan

Wants No Politics In Education Here

Directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce voted last night to support the Legislative Committee's unanimous recommendation that the Chamber oppose legislation designed to provide for a popular election of members of the school board for Allegany County Schools, Harold W. Smith, manager, reported last night.

Smith said the committee, headed by George L. Buchanan, asserted the present system has been very successful in developing the sound educational program established in our school system.

The election of board members, the Chamber asserted, would result in political intrusion in the school system and pointed out that experience in other sections has proved that is just what happens.

The election of the board members, the Chamber added, tends to weaken the continuity of a school program.

The committee on Education, headed by Adolph Blunk, also agreed with the Legislative committee that no change be made in the method of selecting members of the school board.

That group also suggested that the Education committee be broadened for a survey of the needs of the public schools and particularly to study the question of expanding school buildings to care for ever increasing enrollments.

A heavy expenditure must be made soon for new space, the committee warned, and a survey of the problem is to be completed in the near future.

Directors concurred in the Legislative committee's recommendation that the Chamber take the following action on referenda to the Maryland Constitution in the November election:

Approve Amendments 1 and 2; disapprove Amendment 3; approve Amendment 4 and take no action on Amendments 5, 6 and 7 which apply solely to Baltimore.

Plans were announced for a membership meeting to be held at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club November 24 with members of the Legislative Council as guests of the Chamber.

Members of the Council will be asked at that meeting to discuss the legislative program for the 1949 session of the Maryland General Assembly.

The directors voted to give recognition to the 100th anniversary of Rosenbaum's store and to commend Rosenbaum Brothers for its work in the cultural and commercial development of this city.

Labor Groups Plan Pre-Election Rally

The Allegany County committee of the Maryland League of United Voters last night held a joint meeting with the Political Action committee of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, to make plans for co-operating in the coming general election.

C. E. Stutzman, chairman of the county committee, said plans were formulated for co-ordinating the election campaigns of the CIO, AFL, Railroad and Independent unions of this county.

A final committee conference will be held Sunday, October 31, at 12 noon at Textile Workers Hall here for all campaign workers, he said.

Will Allen, Bethesda, co-ordinator for the League, will be the principal speaker at that rally.

Detailed plans made then will avoid any duplication in work on the election day, he added.

TWUA officials said the Mayor and City Council has granted permission to Local 1874 to operate a sound truck from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. on November 2 on election day to urge citizens to go to the polls.

Documentary Film On Navy Antarctic Expedition Will Be Shown Here

As part of Cumberland's observance of Navy Day, a technicolor film prepared from movies taken by Army, Navy, Marine and Coast Guard cameramen on the Navy's expedition to Little America in the winter of 1946-47 will be shown at the Maryland Theatre for four days, starting Sunday.

This was announced yesterday by Capt. Robert S. Quackenbush, Jr., USN, Annapolis, who is chief of naval photography for the Navy Department in Washington.

Capt. Quackenbush, who is making a speaking tour of Maryland and Virginia, said the documentory film, prepared by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for public release, will be shown simultaneously in 80 cities throughout the nation next week in observance of Navy Day, October 27.

Three movie stars serve as commentators in the technicolor film, which has a running time of 72 minutes. They are Robert Montgomery and Robert Taylor, both former Navy men, and Van Heflin, who served in the Air Force.

Cumberland is one of the three Maryland cities being visited by Capt. Quackenbush on his tour. He has already spoken in Baltimore, and he will go to Leonardtown today.

Aside from addressing students at Allegany, Fort Hill and LaSalle High Schools, Capt. Quackenbush also spoke at the luncheon meeting if the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday and appeared on a broadcast over Station WCUM.

The naval officer served as second in command on the Navy expedition to Little America, which was commanded by Rear Admiral Richard Cruzen, with Read Admiral Richard Byrd as officer in charge of the project.

About 4,000 men, including a number of civilian scientists and 11 correspondents, took part in the expedition to the Antartic, which was resigned to test equipment and materiel and to obtain scientific and topographical data regarding the Little America region, as well as to train Navy personnel under Antarctic conditions.
